Canada's Population 22,500,000 by 1970

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canada's population will "explode" beyond 18,000,000 this year and reach 22,500,000 by the end of the decade, the Bank of Montreal predicted yesterday.

By 1970, the bank estimated in its monthly review, Canada's annual birth rate likely will rise to 600,000.

A Real Birthday at Last!

A real, honest-to-goodness birthday party will be celebrated at last on Monday by David Spittal, 579 Baker, and his pretty little neighbor, Sharon Lynn Ottenbreit, 575 Baxter, who were both born Feb. 29, 1956, the extra day that turns up only every four years. When it isn't leap year Sharon adopts Feb. 28 as her "birthday." David selects March 1. — (Colonist photo.)

Plebiscite For Germany?

LONDON (UPI) — The Western Powers intend to propose to Russia at the May summit meeting that the German people decide their own future in a plebiscite in both East and West Germany, it was reported yesterday.

Voting would be secret and supervised by the UN.

In Berlin, a city government spokesman said West Berlin would approve such a plebiscite plan without reservations.

Vertol 107 Helicopter
... to replace logging roads?

Alert Bay Probable Test Area

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A fleet of giant helicopters may be in use before the end of this year to log the mountain-top forests of Vancouver Island.

The Daily Colonist has learned that a major company is actively planning to experiment with logging, by turboprop helicopter, hitherto inaccessible timber on B.C.'s mountainsides.

B.C. TO HELP

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said his department has agreed to take part in the experiments.

Some 100,000 feet of high elevation timber in scattered experimental patches in B.C. will probably be made available to the company at specially reduced stumpage rates.

PROBABLE SITE

One of the experimental areas is expected to be on the mountainsides near Alert Bay on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Williston gave a brief hint of the operation in the legislature yesterday when he said airlifts in logging are seen in the crystal ball for B.C.

DESIGN CHANGES

"New gas turbine power will change the design of helicopters sufficiently so that payloads in properly designed machines will be a reality.

"Savings in road building costs could be significant enough to make increased volumes of timber economically accessible," he said.

MAJOR RISK

That was all Mr. Williston said in the House, but it was learned from a reliable source that one firm is prepared to risk $2,000,000 for three turbo jet helicopters.

It is understood negotiations for the aircraft are now in progress and that they will be specially designed for use in British Columbia's timber industry.

BOEING PROPERTY

It was announced last month that Vertol Aircraft Company of Pennslyvania and Arnprior (Canada) had been bought out by the Boeing Airplane Co., of Seattle.

News stories then disclosed that Vertol had contracts for three aircraft for the west, understood to be used for logging and other purposes in the west.

TWIN JET

Vertol already has a helicopter, the Vertol 107 twin jet, scheduled for production early in 1960, which will be able to carry a pay load of 9,000 pounds.

These would be capable of carrying 1,000 board feet of logs in a single haul and would be capable of flying in mechanical equipment, tractors, camp supplies and men.

There would no longer be need for roads to logging operations.

An 8,000 to 9,000-pound lifting capacity is the minimum considered economical for logging operations.

SAVING SHOWN

In Pembroke, Ont., estimates on handling 14,000,000 board feet over a distance of seven miles to water by helicopter, showed an approximate saving of $13 per $1,000 board feet.

The Vertol Corporation already is working on a more powerful machine with a maximum lifting capacity of between 12,000 and 14,000 pounds and a drawbar pull equivalent to a 150 to 200-horsepower diesel tug towing at three miles an hour.

REVOLUTIONARY

A forest service official yesterday described the proposed plan as "revolutionary . . . a plan that can open up vast areas of timber that were believed inaccessible."

In his speech in the legis-

DON ROBINSON

Winter Boost For Tourism

Support of the legislature and the people of the province in bringing the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Garibaldi Park was urged last night by Don Robinson (SC, Lillooet).

"The department of recreation and conservation could take up no finer and more profitable task than fostering the Winter Olympics at Garibaldi Park," he said.

"It is the finest natural winter playground on the whole Pacific Coast and a natural site for the Winter Olympics," he said. "It would take money, but the returns would be tremendous. You have only to look at the benefits Vancouver received from staging the Britisn Empire Games in 1954."

He said the move would be of immense benefit to the province's tourist trade, which at the moment is primarily a summer trade only, by bringing publicity to the facilities for winter enjoyment.

Allies Must Agree

Bonn Gives NATO Pledge on Spain

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) — Chancellor Adenauer's government pledged yesterday it will not negotiate with Spain for military supply bases unless NATO agrees to it.

A defence ministry spokesman made the pledge in the face of a growing storm in Western capitals over fears of a secret West German deal with Gen. Francisco Franco's regime

Adenauer is under fire for planning to move outside NATO commitments and negotiate with a nation excluded from the Atlantic alliance.

West German officials repeated their denials that any negotiations had started but reliable quarters said a West German general and two other defence ministry representatives already have made preliminary soundings in Madrid.

Reliable informants in Madrid said Franco discussed the question with his national defence council Tuesday night.

The Social Democartic party, Adenauer's chief political opposition, blasted the government Wednesday for "monstrous stupidity and tactlessness" in the matter.

A party statement said "the link between Adenauer and Franco brings back evil memories of another alliance to our Western allies."

The West German defence minister, Franz Josef Strauss, exchanged sharp words with the U.S. and British ambassadors Wednesday. (See also Page 5.)

The ambassador told Strauss their governments are distressed over the timing of the German move.

Strauss said he was angry that reports of the plan were leaked to the press and was dismayed at press criticism that the move would revive memories of German-Spanish co-operation during Hitler's time.

In Madrid, the Spanish foreign ministry issued an official denial that West Germany has conducted negotiations with Spain for military or guided missile bases.

A West German spokesman said depots abroad were needed to store munitions, spare parts, fuel and hospital supplies.

'Vee Leek Eek'

Ike Grins His Way Into 'Carioca' Hearts

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — President Eisenhower won the hearts of hundreds of thousands of "Cariocas" yesterday with his famous grin and words of peace and friendship.

The president triumphed in this carnival-minded city of 3,000,000 people in a day of public appearances and speech-making that set the tenor of his four-nation "good partner" tour of South America.

To the Brazilian Congress he pledged that the United States would devote "substantial portions" of any disarmament saving to economic development.

To the 11 justices of the supreme court in their ornate chamber he appeared as a visitor before the bar to plead that "the rule of law" must supersede "the rule of the sword" throughout the world.

Carnival Air Grips Brazil

At a state dinner tendered by host President Juscelino Kubitschek at the foreign ministry, he attested to "the high importance" the United States attaches to its good neighbors to the south.

To the hundreds of thousands who turned out in the streets to cheer, sing, shoot firecrackers and unleash a blizzard of confetti in his honor, he brought his personal prestige and the friendship of the United States.

His wild reception was virtually unprecedented in Brazilian history. A warm sun beamed on the gay city as he arrived and a rain last night did little to dampen the enthusiasm of the thousands of "Cariocas," as Rio's citizens call themselves.

Eisenhower, who wound up the day's energetic activities looking slightly rumpled in the humid, summery heat, joined in the spirit and reached out to grab hands wherever he could.

It was the most hectic day of his 10-day tour to date, a forerunner of what he will find tomorrow in Sao Paulo, Brazil's booming "Chicago."

He was showered with rose petals by 200 schoolgirls on the steps of the Congress, where lawmakers applauded 22 times his appeal for world peace and economic co-operation. He received a standing ovation before and after his address.

The only scowling faces were on several dozen young men who hung out the windows of a building draped with a five-storey banner of Fidel Castro of Cuba. Almost everyone else shouted "vee leek Eek."

Finch Split

Carole Out To Save Own Neck?

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Carole Tregoff's attorneys opened a possible escape hatch for the red-haired former model yesterday by suggesting her lover might have murdered his wife. (See Page 32.)

In the first open split in the defence in the trial of Dr. Bernard Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, her attorneys indicated it was possible for a person to be at the scene of a crime yet innocent of any complicity.

Tourist Body Backs Drive For Games

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Tourist Council said Wednesday it will offer full support to any efforts to bring the 1968 winter Olympic Games to Vancouver and Garibaldi Park.

Council president Jack K. Melville said:

"If we get the games, we can hope for full federal and provincial support in opening up Garibaldi Park, which would have tremendous benefits not only for ever-growing Vancouver but as a major B.C. tourist attraction in both summer and winter."

Free Vote On Hanging?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Citizen says a free vote is likely in the Commons tonight on Frank McGee's bill calling for abolition of capital punishment.

Shocked MLAs Throw Away Cigarets After Seeing Film of Cancer Horrors

Two MLAs brought up the subject of the cigaret habit in the legislature Wednesday and said the government should do something to educate the people about its dangers.

Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) said cigarets are a "billionaire industry" and a form of addiction.

He suggested that methods used in Sweden to break smokers of the habit should be studied and perhaps a "nicotine clinic" should be established in B.C. to help people quit smoking.

Mr. Dowding himself quit a year ago but admitted to the House that "it is tough."

"All you need is willpower," said 85-year-old Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie and a non-smoker.

Fred Sharp (SC, Vancouver East) said, after seeing a film shown MLAs Tuesday night pointing up the possibility of lung cancer from smoking, he was convinced "we're probably committing mass suicide."

It was tragic to think, he said, that 27,000 people would die in the U.S. this year from lung cancer, most of which, he said, could be traced to cigarets.

He suggested that perhaps the film could be obtained for showing in the high schools of the province to educate the young about the danger.

The Vancouver member disclosed that a number of members, after seeing the graphic film, "not only threw away their cigarets but their match boxes as well and I commend them."

He himself has never smoked "except for the odd cigar."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A SALESMAN of cemetery plots called on me the other night. He didn't say he was a cemetery salesman. He called himself a "Public Relations Counsellor."

He carried a brief case, and he spoke in a reverent monotone, as though he were already in the presence of the dead. Perhaps, in his mind, he was. At least he saw me as a potential corpse.

He unfolded from his case a panoramic view in full color, of an expanse of trim lawn flanked by trees, with a path leading up the middle to a monument. He pointed to the monument.

"That's our Open Bible," he said in a solemn, portenteous voice, and looked at me as if he expected a reply.

"Um yes," I said. "The Bible in stone. Uh-ha!"

He let his eyes rest sternly on me for an instant, and went on. "Each of our gardens has a theme. This is the Open Bible," he explained. "A lot of people think this is a picture of our gardens near Victoria . . ."

He paused and stared. I knew he wanted me to say: "Well, isn't it the garden near Victoria?" or "It looks just like it," but from pure stubbornness I kept quiet.

* * *

"It's really a picture of one of our gardens in the United States," he said. "This one will look very much the same when it's finished, only better. That's because of the—of the Climate."

He said the word Climate as though it were loaded with hidden significance. I had a vignette in my mind of a cemetery executive lecturing his salesman about the advantages of working in Victoria, because the winter sunshine attracted so many potential customers from across the nation.

However, this man was only thinking of the Climate from the horticultural point of view. The Climate made it possible to put in many kinds of plants and shrubs around the edges of the garden.

* * *

He went on to explain that there were no tombstones or any such old-fashioned clutter in this garden; just plates of everlasting bronze, flush with the turf.

"The power mowers can move through easily to keep it cared for," he went on. "It's as much for the living as for the dead. It's a beautiful Garden of Memory."

"A-hmm," I said, by which I meant to imply: "It's good of the people at the garden to send public relations counsellors around with this useful information."

"I'm not selling anything now," he said, "but we've applied to the Public Utilities Commission for a rate increase, and later on there will be salesmen."

Even though he wasn't selling anything, he added, there sometimes were people who were Interested . . . Here he made a significant pause, clearly offering me a chance to jump back into the conversation. I let the chance go by.

* * *

People naturally didn't like to think about these things, he said. I looked up at the bookshelves. Somewhere I should have a copy of "The Loved One," by Evelyn Waugh. Or had I returned it to its owner?

The public relations counsellor said that he sometimes met people who were truly Interested in sparing those who . . . who . . . were left, the worry and heartache that would fall on them if . . . if . . .

"Yes?" I prompted. The poor man seemed overcome by mournful thoughts.

Well, he said, any time he did meet people who were . . . Interested, he was willing to pass along their names and give them a chance to hear about "Our Pre-Need Plan . . ."

"Your WHAT plan?" I demanded.

"Pre-Need Plan," he said. This, it transpired, was a plan that allowed people—providing they showed a bona fide, sincere interest—to pay for their plots in advance, by installments.

* * *

"Here are some pictures I took myself," he said, and he opened an album of glorious colored photographs, probably turned out by hundreds in some mass-production photo studio in Des Moines.

I learned that the Memorial Garden included separate sections for Masons and for Catholics; the Field of Honor for veterans, the Christus Gardens, Babyland . . .

All of them (I knew) had the same neat tablets of everlasting bronze set in symmetrical rows, the same rules against erecting gravestones or planting unauthorized flowers. Each was a garden suburb whose inhabitants had to conform, even in death.

How peacefully would they sleep, with the powermowers buzzing back and forth over their heads, gardeners scattering weed-killer, and inspectors tramping about in search of illegal violets and snowdrops?

* * *

This strictly regulated necropolis was a long way in spirit from the moss-grown and oak-shadowed country churchyards where people were buried in a less efficient age.

Then, the graveyard was part of the church. Now it is a business enterprise. What kind of an Elegy would Gray have written among the bronze tablets of a Garden of Memory?

"Sorry I wasted your time," I told the public relations counsellor as I showed him to the door. "I'm not interested. I never was interested."

As he disappeared into the darkness, he said that was all right, but it would be more expensive Later On.

* * *

So I said goodbye to the public relations counsellor who was only a salesman in disguise. I had nothing against him. A man has to make a living.

I wished he had been more candid. What he had meant was: "Buy a Grave Before You're Dead —It's Cheaper." Why hadn't he said so?

Regardless of the way he made his pitch, however, I would not have been in a mood to buy a grave on the "Pay Now—Die Later" plan. I was willing to wait.

Family, Children's Service Honors Foster Parents

Family and Children's Service admitted 176 youngsters in 1959 and discharged 155 in care of foster parents, a special meeting of the service—held to honor and aid foster parents—was told this week.

The large turnout at Spencerhouse heard a panel discussion on functions of foster parents. A presentation for 18 years' service as a foster mother was made to Mrs. Earl Pearson. Chairman was W. D. Osborn, president of the board of the service.

Ike Warns Reds:

Keep Out of Hemisphere

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (Reuters) — President Eisenhower, in the most important speech so far in his South American tour, issued a strong warning Wednesday against Communist attempts at subversion within the Western Hemisphere.

The president set forth the United States' attitude to a joint session of the Brazilian congress after arriving at this old capital from Brasilia, the country's new capital-in-the-making, 600 miles to the northeast.

DENIED FREEDOM

He said the United States would consider it intervention in the internal affairs of an American country if any power "whether by invasion, coercion of subversion" succeeded in denying it freedom of choice.

The statement was seen as bringing coercion and subversion under the Monroe doctrine which warns outside powers to keep hands off the American continent.

MONEY FOR PEACE

The president also pledged that the U.S. will continue to urge other free nations to devote substantial amounts of their savings from disarmament to peaceful development.

Rio gave Eisenhower a Broadway-style ticker tape welcome as he drove through the streets after his arrival. Confetti and shredded paper showered down from windows.

Flags and "I Like Ike" banners festooned skyscrapers along the route. The only discordant note was a banner displayed by the National Students Union. It proclaimed "We like Fidel Castro" and carried a picture of the Cuban premier.

Eisenhower told the congress that this is a time of fateful decision.

"At the same moment of this great crisis, we face anew decisions involving tyranny or freedom, totalitarianism or democracy."

SHOULD BE FREE

Human beings everywhere should be free to choose their guiding philosophies, form of government and methods of progress, he said, but added:

"We would consider it an intervention in the internal affairs of an American state if any power, whether by invasion, coercion or subversion, succeeded in denying the freedom of choice to the people of any of our sister republics."

Aerial Logging

lature yesterday Mr. Williston said that in the future "the logger will tend to become a push-button man."

REMOTE CONTROL

"There is sure to be greater use of electronics in actuating and nerve-pulsing basic logging machines. Electronics will be linked with radio to make possible more remote control of operations," he said.

He said the crystal ball of the logging industry indicates:

- More portable spars carried around on everything from tractors to trucks.
- Lighter-weight trucks designed to carry maximum payloads. Turbine power also is in the offing.
- Increased use of one-man operated grapples, air tongs. Shovel and boom design is being changed to use these devices more effectively.
- Lighter tractors will be used in harvesting timber as they go into a second-growth economy where the output will be largely fibre instead of lumber products.
- Tractors will become more multiple-use machines with front-end lifts which will handle everything from logs to road-building material.
- Portable chippers and barkers will go into the woods as the need grows for raw material for pulp, hardboard and particle board plants.

Thief 'Snapped' in the Act

Caught in the act as she stole $6 a week ago, caretaker's wife, Mrs. Jean Shirton, 37, wept yesterday in Toronto court as she was fined $100 or 30 days in jail for the crime. Tenant, John Butler, fed up by loss of $390 in minor thefts over six-month period, set a camera in his room to "snap" the thief when a bureau drawer was opened. Photograph above, when published in Toronto, was criticized by Rev. F. C. Miller, who called it "unjust" and added newspapers had no right "to make anyone look blacker than they are."

Peace Revenue in Budget?

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks will lead off the budget debate in the legislature today. Other afternoon speakers are Tony Gargave (CCF, Mackenzie), Dan Campbell (SC, Comox), Harold Roche (SC, North Peace River). Night sitting speakers will be Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Irvine Corbett (SC, Yale), R. O. Newton (SC, Columbia), and G. L. Gibson (SC, Delta).

Gordon Downing (CCF, Burnaby) charged in the legislature yesterday that the provincial government has already budgeted for water licence fees from the Peace River Power Development Company.

Estimates for 1960-61, he maintained, showed the government fully intends to go ahead with Peace development by private promotors.

The government is budgeting for $1,750,000 revenue from water rentals and recording fees he said, a 56 per cent increase — about $600,000 — on its 1959 revenue of $1,117,000.

"The government appears all ready for the honeymoon trip with this dangerous and alluring female with the Swedish accent (the Wenner-Gren interests)," Mr. Dowding said. He added that W. C. Mainwaring, president of the Peace River Power Development Co., had made it plain that if the Columbia River development goes ahead, the Peace project is out.

"HOLDING THE BAG"

"Where does that leave the government? In the middle of the tracks holding a bag, a bag with an open end to it," he said.

"To Mr. Mainwaring, the contract is an open-end contract with a built-in escape hatch."

A bill to provide a government-employee shared plan of group life insurance for civil servants and members of the legislature, with a maximum coverage of $10,000, was introduced in the House by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Alex Matthews (SC, Vancouver Centre) accused the federal government of not keeping its election promises; of not trying to do anything about the high rate of exchange which is "throttling our B.C. exports;" and of being responsible for the high cost of money.

"When we ask for equity," he said, "John D's footsteps point the other way."

★ ★ ★

If Premier W. A. C. Bennett keeps breaking promises he'll be back in his hardware store by 1966, Mel Bryan (L, North Vancouver) predicted.

He said Mr. Bennett had promised that if his "premier's committee" reported that a second crossing was needed for Vancouver now, it would be built now.

"That report was given last April, saying that a new First Narrows bridge must be built immediately. "The report . . . has never been released."

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Germany's Surprise Move

BECAUSE it was unheralded, Germany's sudden request for military supply bases in Spain seems to have taken other Western capitals by surprise. The West German defence minister, Franz Strauss, has not helped matters by his irritated approach to British and American ambassadors at Bonn on the subject. His explanation that West Germany, with 12 divisions in prospect under the NATO defence plan, needs depots for munitions, fuel, hospital stores and spare parts may be completely factual. It is the sudden proposal to trust a former Axis ally in Hitler's war, as against all of the NATO partners, however, that makes the move an unusual one.

The further development that the United States is remaining neutral to the German proposal and aloof from heated discussion which has followed is equally surprising in its own way.

On the sheer basis of security for its depot line of stores and reserves, Spain may have some special significance in the mind of the Bonn government. As against that, however, Spain very definitely evokes memories and political connotations for Germany's Western allies. It is, for one thing, the same Franco who is in control; the man who ran with the Nazis both in Spain's civil war and later in the great conflict. It was Franco's Falangist Spain which made repeated verbal threats against Britain's safeguarding bastion at the entrance to the Mediterranean, Gibraltar. It is true the outcome of the war tamed the 'Axis' Franco, but there remains a real hiatus between that situation and forgetfulness on the part of the Western world. That the new and liberated Germany should pin its faith on a former Axis ally in this respect has come as something of a shock to several Western nations.

On a military basis—the desire to put valuable defence stores beyond the immediate reach of any aggressor who might at the start overrun part of Western Europe, the Bonn request might be more understandable. Unfortunately that will not likely cure the political and other circumstances attaching directly to Spain's current position in the free world.

On all counts the Bonn administration would have been wiser to have canvassed its proposal with the principal nations in the NATO structure before committing itself to anything in the nature of an all-or-nothing stand on such an issue. As a precursor to Western unity in advance of the forthcoming summit talks this digression is not likely to be welcome.

Not Easily Fenced

THE premier fell back on the words of an old song to say "don't fence me in" when queried on the date of the next election. For Mr. Bennett this was hyperbole; he is too agile to be fenced in this connection. One of the joys of the premier is the privilege of keeping his opponents guessing, and the present head of the Socred party wouldn't be human if he didn't make the most of this time-honored prerogative.

Everyone assumes that a provincial election will be scheduled for this year, and Mr. Bennett's recent budget did nothing to dim such expectation. Rather the opposite, perhaps. There is knowledge also that governments seldom wait until forced to an election in their last year of office. The political weather may not then be of their choosing.

Looked at objectively the Socred regime does not seem in danger whether an election be held this year or next. The Liberals and Conservatives are at a low ebb and have to work their way back from ground level up; the socialism of the CCF has limited appeal in a burgeoning and prosperous province. The electorate can be unpredictable, however. Mr. Bennett may prefer to play safe while the going is good.

There is a hint that 1960 will be the year, in the premier's statement that the homeowner grant will be the chief issue. Actually this is somewhat puzzling since on balance the grant wins general favor. Mr. Strachan has recanted his first impetuous objection and a policy not contested by political opponents can scarcely be an issue.

However if this grant is to be the main plank in the Socred election campaign hay would have to be made while the sun shone, hence a 1960 poll. By 1961 the increase in the homeowner grant would be stale, unless of course he has in mind a further increase a year hence. Even then it would not be an "issue," since opposition groups—aware of which side the bread is buttered on—would not oppose it on the hustings. Voters like a handout, whether or not they recognize it as some of their own money being given back to them.

Can't Have It Both Ways

MANY people, including civic officials, will agree with the Victoria Labor Council that the streets of Victoria are in "deplorable state" and that a program of reconstruction and improvement is desirable. Probably the first to acknowledge the shortcomings of the city's street system so far as pavement standards are concerned are the very people responsible for their maintenance. But recognition of an unsatisfactory state of affairs is not always accompanied by ability to repair it.

The labor council also recognizes that it is treading on somewhat delicate ground in mentioning this matter, and well it might. The city council's inability to provide streets of satisfactory standards is due almost entirely to the successful pursuit of the very aims which the labor council fosters, namely, higher and higher wages.

Most of a civic government's expenditures are for human services in one form or another; even the materials used in public works, and on the administrative side as well, contain a predominant labor factor, the actual value of raw materials being very small. Each year the salaries and wages of all these people, whether they work directly for the city or the manufacturers of its supplies, have been pushed up and up to the point where the tax dollar will buy less than half of what it would a decade ago. At the same time the schools, which are by fa the biggest single drain on revenue, are multiplying the cost to the city for what is almost entirely wages.

The labor council cannot have it both ways. Goodness knows, city taxes are high enough as it is; to push them up enough to take care of an adequate street program would bankrupt some taxpayers, especially those whom the labor council has always befriended, the elderly and the poor.

Population and Poverty

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's visit to four of the Latin American countries is not likely, by itself to overcome gargantuan problems. It will have to be followed by tremendous economic contributions, not only by the U.S. but by other countries too.

The major problem Eisenhower faces is how to reconcile the tremendous economic needs of the 188,000,000 Latins with his own desire to balance the United States budget—indeed, to bring in a surplus in the next fiscal year.

For decades Latin America has been in ferment. In many areas conditions have been complicated by the lack of diversified economics and technical skills. The struggle for survival has at times given way to corruption, greed, bloodshed and dictatorship.

It is true that the U.S. has poured billions of dollars worth of investment and loans into the area; but, as some newspapers suggest, much of this investment may have been poured in simply because of the possibility of large profits rather than from consideration of increased living standards and internal strength in the area.

The great need of American aid—that is government aid rather than private—is seen in the growing awareness of U.S. industry that their Latin American investments involve tremendous risk. Would investors ever again dare invest in Cuba after the confiscation of industry by Fidel Castro in return for agrarian bonds of questionable value.

But the U.S. cannot afford to ignore Central and South America. Russia was quick to move to Cuba with a sugar-and-loan pact. The spread of communism in Latin America would pose a military threat to the northern hemisphere.

It isn't a question of time solving the problem. At the present birth rate, Latin America's population may double, to some 600,000,000 in 40 years. The problems that have their primary roots in poverty may grow, increasing opportunities for Communists.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

LANDING in Montreal after a lecture tour in the U.S. a British art expert said he could have used an interpreter while across the line. Half his audiences couldn't understand a word.

"It's the English I speak," he explained.

Not so much the English perhaps as the accent. Presumably his American listeners could have followed his words in print, although some orientation is taking place in this respect. It was not for nothing that H. L. Mencken fashioned an American dictionary.

Languages have always changed their pattern. No English poet today writes like Chaucer, for instance. Were it not for the mass entertainment media North America might in time speak a different tongue from people across the Atlantic.

★ ★ ★

What is the Queen's English anyway? Is it the speech of ordinary people, the speech of a particular group, or the literary form favored by purists?

The Queen herself, you will remember, has not been above rebuke. One noble lord at least, whose own speech may be suspect for all we know, found fault with her tones as well as with the platitudes not of her making.

This is where accent, style, articulation come in; it is also where American differs from English. If the art lecturer spoke like Noel Coward rather than like Laurence Olivier, for example, I can understand his predicament.

The clipped speech of the Coward school is hard to follow.

In the matter of wordage alone one might hazard a guess that the American tongue will some day blanket the so-called English-speaking world. This consequence of western world leadership becomes more marked every day. The movies, radio and television spread U.S. word coinage as well as social habits and manners.

American idioms are being absorbed everywhere, and the absorption is easier when peoples speak basically the same language.

Canadians perforce, because of propinquity, become the quickest disciples.

Yet it would be a pity if distinguishing modes of speech disappeared altogether. One world seems a fine ideal—maybe—but one tongue would be terribly monotonous.

It is ethnic flavor that gives charm to language and conversation, although I may be arguing thus because my own accent, strangely, since it seems all right to me, has at times put me in the class of Coward and the British art expert—in need of an interpreter.

Or so some folk remark—facetiously I hope.

Syntax is something else again, but here one doubts that the visiting British lecturer could be faulted in any respect. Had they understood him probably his American audiences would have admired him. The well-spoken man displaying an orderly flow of words is always appreciated.

It would be his accent that created the barrier, and for this—until we are all swallowed up in one tongue—heaven be praised.

The besetting sin of today is the common mold being forced on us willy-nilly; let the Queen's English continue to be flexible, varied and interestingly different.

Reports from Ottawa

HERE'S one correspondent who was mightily impressed by the first day of the hang-or-not debate.

The parliamentary argument on Frank McGee's anti-execution bill will continue today — by courtesy of the government, which made the extra day available when it became clear that this was a matter that MPs on all sides of the Commons wanted to debate at length.

Having made this concession, the government should not be a party to any talking-out of this bill for the purpose of forestalling a vote.

And private MPs, having debated this matter in—so far, at any rate—a highly commendable way, owe it to themselves to carry the matter to the logical conclusion of a vote.

Indeed, failure now to decide the issue by the democratic process of polling the MPs in their places in the Commons would be so anti-climactic as to be a disservice to the public interest and a blow at the prestige of Parliament.

I don't believe this bill to abolish capital punishment for murder has more than an even chance of passing the Commons, and less than an even chance in the Senate.

But don't under-estimate the power and impact of this debate. Frank McGee may lose this fight, but the issue will not die. Each time it is debated in the Commons its realization comes appreciably closer.

In the meantime I look for this debate to crystallize public and parliamentary opinion in favor of reforms in the law which recognizes no degrees of culpability in murder, and provides no punishment lesser than hanging.

One direction of this reform is pointed by a private bill before the Commons which would adopt the Anglo-American practice admitting a second degree culpability in certain types of murder, particularly those of passion, and make the punishment therefor imprisonment rather than death.

It's a pity that Parliament rarely produces the high level of debate that has characterized discussion of the McGee bill. It was particularly refreshing to hear back benchers, bereft of guidance from party leaders and cabinet ministers, debate the bill solely on its merits. I would like to see more legislation debated in this kind of political vacuum, with arguments crossing and recrossing party lines as MPs agree or disagree simply as MPs—not as Tories, Grits and Socialists.

This is not possible with bills involving the spending of money, because of the parliamentary principle that the government alone may propose legislation to spend money, and must assume responsibility for such legislation. But often there are bills that private MPs could sponsor, rather than the government.

This 24th Parliament is ridden with partisan politics. Petty party advantage rather than the public weal too often appears to be the main consideration of party leaders and back bench MPs alike. Moreover, the government back benchers who have anything on the ball are usually bored stiff—frustrated by feeling they are wasting their time.

The wholly praiseworthy performance of the House of Commons on the McGee bill points towards a way to strengthen Parliament, to make it a more effective instrument for lawmaking, and a more impressive advertisement for democracy.

Little Stores Flourish

By GREGORY CLARK

ONE of the great mysteries of our time is the apparent prosperity, or at least the survival, of thousands upon thousands of little stores and shops along the miles of streets of our bigger cities.

Despite the most highly specialized and scientific competition of the great mercantile stores downtown, and the steady increase and expansion of supermarkets and shopping plazas; despite the professional power and force of advertising with millions of dollars behind it, there at their counters up and down and across miles of uptown streets stand the grocers, the butchers, the druggists, the dealers in fancy goods, radios, gents' furnishings, ladies' wear, and an extraordinary sprinkling of extremely specialized shops whose goods must appeal to a most limited clientele on very limited occasions.

Yet they appear to flourish—or, if they don't flourish, they seem to provide a livelihood for their keepers.

All right: where do they get the money to start these enterprises? It must take thousands to launch a butcher shop. It takes a great many thousands to stock and equip a drug store.

The answer must be that many more people have money than is generally supposed. And a great many more people than is generally supposed like to toddle around and shop in little shops among folks they know.

From the Scriptures

He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities.—Isaiah, 53:5.

Born but to die, and reasoning but to err;
Alike in ignorance, his reason such,
Whether he thinks too little or too much:
Chaos of thought and passion, all confused;
Still by himself abused or disabused;

Great lord of all things, yet a prey to all;
Sole judge of truth, in endless error hurled:
The glory, jest, and riddle of the world!

Eisenhower's Indecision

By MARQUIS CHILDS

A PRESIDENT, it has been written, is many men. President Eisenhower is one of those men in such generous measure that it seems ungrateful to point out that he neglects or ignores the other roles making up the complex office of chief executive.

Off on another journey of good will, this time to Latin America, he is in his happiest aspect. The value of these journeys, despite the disappointment in the countries not visited, is unquestionably great. In India in December he performed superbly and there is evidence of action to follow through on the glow of friendship generated there.

He is the ceremonial president; the president who symbolizes and who speaks for a generous, idealistic America. With his vast reputation as soldier-hero for peace he is ideally equipped for the role.

★ ★ ★

But, as recent events have begun painfully to show once again, he is not the president who takes the hard, tough decisions and thereby sets a clear policy line for all in his administration to follow. The drift is conspicuous and above all in vital areas of foreign policy. Decisions are put off and put off until now with only 11 months to go President Eisenhower's successor is likely to find a truly appalling array of unresolved problems awaiting him.

The drift is well illustrated by the effort to shape up within the government here an agreed disarmament position for a March 15 deadline. On that date in Geneva the representatives of five Western powers will sit down across the table from five Soviet-bloc powers to start the long, tedious effort to cut back the arms burden with proper inspections and controls.

★ ★ ★

First the differences within the State Department, the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission on the proper approach had to be worked out. Then the far deeper divergences between these three separate legs of the disarmament stool had to be reconciled. This last is a process that has really not yet been completed, although in the past few days progress has been made.

When the negotiators for the other four Western powers—Canada, Great Britain, France and Italy—came here they were dismayed to find how much was still to be done within the American government. For, of course, until the American position is fixed the last and perhaps most difficult step of all—to bring the five countries together on a common ground — cannot be taken.

There was something almost comic about the behind-scenes attempt to find a way to put forward the March 15 deadline without asking the Communist bloc for a postponement. It happens that Geneva will be filled to the rafters on March 15. A conference on the law of the sea with representatives of 83 nations is to be held under United Nations auspices. At the same time the marathon conference on nuclear testing will still be going on.

In a message to the UN secretariat the American negotiator, Frederick Eaton, suggested that the strain on hotel rooms and UN interpreters might be too great, so wouldn't it be better to put off the disarmament talks for two or three weeks. Back came the prompt reply that this presented no problem and all would be in readiness for March 15.

In the talks with the Soviet Union and Britain, looking to a ban on nuclear tests, the same indecision growing out of a conflict within the government here has been evident. Currently a hopeful approach to a nearly cheat-proof detection system, in the view of distinguished atomic scientists, is in the addition to the detection network of a series of unmanned seismic stations to pick up small earth shocks.

A push to prove this up might get the conference over the last hurdles. But the push is not evident. The probability today, therefore, is that no agreement will be reached in time for a treaty to be put before the Senate. It will go over until January, which will mean that for two and a half years the United States will have had the worst of both worlds—refraining from testing without getting concessions from the Soviets in the form of an inspection system.

The late John Foster Dulles had the president's confidence so completely that he could force through decisions over inter-governmental opposition. No one could reasonably have expected his successor, Secretary of State Herter, in a short time to achieve the same working relationship.

The fault may lie with the presidency itself. Perhaps it is unreasonable to expect a president to be many men. But in his seven years in the White House President Eisenhower has shown little awareness of what may be wrong with the office and what could be done about it.

Letters to the Editor

The Price of Pills

Why must we pay such high prices for drugs in Canada? For several years friends of mine have said they sent to England for all medications as they were so much cheaper there.

Recently my drug bills have been high so I wrote Boots, Notingham, about one which seemed very expensive. Here are the figures: In B.C. I pay $12 for 100 400-mg Equinil tablets. Boots will send me 500 400-mg Miltour (which are the same as Equinil) for £7:4:8, including postage. A postal order for £7:4:8, including the bank charge, cost me $19.45.

Thus, Equinil came to $3.89 for 100 instead of $12. This difference is shocking. Can nothing be done about it?

Takes Two to One

I am the wife of a veteran living in School District 63 of Saanich. Because our property was purchased under VLA, joint ownership is not permitted for 10 years.

There are many veterans in this district whose property was purchased under VLA, most of them family men with children. Naturally they are anxious to provide their children with adequate schooling and plan to vote in favor of the school building referendum on Saturday, Feb. 27.

However, it takes the "Yes" vote of two VLA property owners to balance the "No" votes of one couple whose property is under joint ownership. Therefore it is doubly important for all of us to get out and vote Saturday.

For Children's Safety

I am the mother of two small children and live near the intersection of Pear and Shelbourne Streets. I was one of the many mothers who signed a petition in favor of having a service station on the south-east corner of this intersection.

As we live only a few yards from Bowker Creek, and our house faces Shelbourne Street, I have had to teach both of my children about these dangers. Where there is a perfectly good sidewalk it is easy enough to train children to play there, also to look both ways before crossing the street. But have you ever tried to teach young children to stay away from water?

I understand that the oil company will cover about 150 feet of a very exposed and dangerous part of Bowker Creek on Pear Street, and that this will be done at the company's expense. I certainly approve of this.

According to the newspaper account of the recent public hearing, Clr. Austin surprised Saanich council by voting against having a service station at Pear and Shelbourne Streets. What made him change his mind this way? Surely he must have known that over 200 people signed a petition in support of a service station at this corner. These people as well as Clr. Austin, knew that this would be the only possible way to have this part of Bowker Creek made safe for children, without costing Saanich a single cent.

Missile Builder Resigns To Criticize Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP)—Thomas Lanphier announced Tuesday he is quitting his executive job with Convair, producer of the Atlas missile, so he can criticize President Eisenhower's defence policies more freely.

Lanphier, Second World War U.S. flying ace, has been strongly critical already. He said Tuesday he still thinks Eisenhower is "taking a chance" with the survival of the U.S.

He said he has notified his company he is resigning "as of this week." He is a vice-president of the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp., which makes the Atlas, the only operational U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile.

He said he wants to be free as a citizen "to criticize my president and my administration which I think they are wrong, in a field where I have some experience and certainly some conviction."

He said he believes President Eisenhower "underestimates the enemy, and overestimates our power . . ."

Cabinet Crisis

Leftists Topple Italian Premier

ROME (UPI) — Christian Democratic Premier Antonio Segni resigned Wednesday in a political crisis precipitated by pressure for a government more to the left. It was the seventh Italian government to fall in seven years.

The decision to quit was reached in a cabinet meeting after which Segni went directly to the presidential palace to hand the resignation of his minority government to President Giovanni Gronchi.

Gronchi is expected to accept Segni's resignation soon. In the meantime, he asked Segni and his cabinet to stay on as a "caretaker" government until a solution to the crisis can be found.

Segni, 69, had been in office a little more than a year. The toppling of his pro-Western regime threw Italy into a political crisis that observers feared will benefit only Italy's powerful Communist party.

MIDDLE ROAD

Segni, in turning in his resignation, effectively signalled his inability to find a middle road between conservative and leftist elements supporting the government.

The government had been constantly harassed by leftist elements within Segni's own Christian Democratic party and by a leftist opposition led by the largest Communist party in the free world.

With the left wing of the Christian Democrats gaining steadily, the small but vocal Liberal party last weekend withdrew its support.

Rather than face an immediate parliamentary confidence debate which the Liberals threatened, Segni turned in his resignation to clear the decks for negotiations for a new government.

Ex-Nazis Next in Line When Adenauer Goes

By GORDON DONALDSON

BONN (TNS) — After the butter—the guns. After the "economic miracle," a military miracle.

West Germany is now rebuilding its arms industry as it has rebuilt its economy over the last decade—with energy, efficiency and a certain cheerful cynicism.

The man in command is Franz-Josef Strauss, barrel-tough 44-year-old Bavarian, Dr. Adenauer's minister of defence.

He is now voted the man most likely to succeed 84-year-old Adenauer when the "Old Fox" finally decides to move over.

A year ago the idea of Strauss as leader would have sounded absurd.

Only one man could succeed Adenauer—Prof. Ludwig Erhard, 63, miracle worker and economist extraordinary — the man who put Germany on its feet.

Then came the presidential crisis of last summer.

Dr. Adenauer, persuaded by eager advisers that he could take the president's job and still control Germany through a weak chancellor, agreed to move up.

Finding he couldn't do it, he withdrew.

The party wanted Erhard as chancellor. Attempts were made to kick Erhard upstairs to the presidency.

Erhard roared defiance and raged into Adenauer's office. He emerged flat as a pooped flea.

His days as a prospective chief were over.

And here we come to a uniquely German struggle—between two ministers, each of whom has a private spy system.

Strauss, as minister of defence, has a brand-new military intelligence service called the Abschirmdienst, a successor to the Abwehr of Admiral Canaris.

Schroeder has the Verfassungschutz (protection of the constitution) office which is a political police force.

The two forces have already tangled over anti-Semitism in Germany.

Strauss's service informed him—and he lost no time in informing the world — that Communists were behind the the swastika-painting incidents.

Schroeder's less imaginative operatives told him there was no organization at all behind the incidents.

Lest anyone should think Strauss and Schroeder can play games all on their own without the boss knowing, Gehlen, the biggest and best German spy network, works directly for Adenauer.

Schroeder's past record works against him. Although apparently never a fanatical Nazi he was a party member (from 1937) and a stormtroper (from 1933).

Strauss is accused by East Germans of having been a Nazi indoctination officer, but they provide no proof of this.

Strauss, who once trained as a schoolteacher, claims he taught nothing more insidious than anti-arficraft gunnery.

Rough Day For Mines At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — All sections of the stock market fell as selling pressure continued amid moderately heavy trading.

Ford Motor of Canada and Great Lakes Paper suffered the biggest industrial losses, each down two points at 156 and 36. Interprovincial Pipe Line declined 1¾ and Steel Company of Canada 1¼.

Brown Company gained 1⅛ at 11⅛. General Dynamics was ahead 1½.

Mines had a rough day. Hudson Bay Mining slipped a point at 46 and International Nickel was off ¾ at 98¼. Senior uraniums continued lower. Algom lost 65 cents at $9.20 and Gunnar 55 cents at $9.25.

Western oils, which earlier in the day struck a five-year low, also had a rough day. Calgary and Edmonton, Home Oil A and Hudson's Bay Oil all lost ¼.

Utilities Lose

MONTREAL (CP) — Losses continued to the close in light trading.

Great Lakes plunged 2 at 36 in papers, Howard Smith fell ¼ at 43¼, MacMillan-Powell dipped ⅛ at 15½, Abitibi lost ½ at 36, B.C. Forest rose ¼ at 13⅛, Fraser increased ⅝ at 25⅜ and Price added ¾ at 41.

International Nickel declined 1½ at 98 in base metals, Hudson Bay dipped ½ at 46½, Asbestos slipped ¾ at 21¼, Aluminium fell ¼ at 30½ and Noranda gained ¼ at 40⅜.

Utilities showed losses. B.C. Power was down ¼ at 33, Quebec Natural Gas ⅝ at 16⅞, Shawinigan ⅜ at 26⅝, Calgary Power ½ at 16¾ and Jamaica 1 at 32.

Imperial Oil eased ⅜ at 32 and Texaco slipped ¼ at 50¼.

Other moves included Cockshutt off ¾ at 16½, Canadian Collieries down 1⅛ at 7⅞, Blue Bonnets off ½ at 8, Labatt down ½ at 25½, Canadian Celanese off ½ at 20¼ and Home A down ½ at 10.

Slowdown in Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks ran into a steady stream of profit selling but closed slightly above their worst levels of the day.

The general list was under pressure from the opening, and only once, during the fourth hour, did the selling let-up.

Aircrafts, electronics and scattered specials sprinkled some good gains throughout the list, while leading steels, autos and chemicals led the main body of stocks into lower ground.

Demand for Silbak

VANCOUVER—Stocks were generally lower, but Silbak Premier was a strong exception, rising three cents to a new high of 32 cents. Another strong feature was New Indian Mines which rose to 10 cents. Coppers were dull and lower.

Oils dropped with Fargo at 3.95; Fort St. John at 1.55 and Vantor at 48 cents.

Canadian Collieries slumped to $8 on breakdown of sale negotiations, but MacMillan-Powell at $15¾ and B. C. Forest Products at $13½ held firm.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP)—The flax market showed a firmer trend with more active trading.

There was evidence of a broader export business and trade reports included substantial sales of Canadian flax were made to the United Kingdom and Japan. Some selling in flax gave the market an irregular tone at times.

Oats and barley trade was hesitant on occasions. Business was mostly of a domestic nature.

Rye trade eased off, reflecting the United States market trends.

MP Urges Ottawa To Threaten U.S.

OTTAWA—A CCF member of Parliament yesterday demanded that the federal government withdraw defence support from the United States until the U.S. offers to assist Canada's depressed uranium industry.

Arnold Peters (CCF, Temiskaming) said Canada established its uranium industry "only to satisfy the United States."

"I suggest that we curtail our assistance to defence till we get some defence for our own industries which we built for the defence of all America," Peters said.

Labor Minister Michael Starr took opposition critics of the federal government's winter works program to task.

The federally-assisted winter works program "may be peanuts to them," he said, "but to the 40,000 Canadians who will get jobs, it means bread and butter on the table."

In discussion of the proposed $15,000,000 program for next year, Starr said the figure is not the ceiling and if municipal or provincial governments want to undertake further projects, Ottawa will co-operate in its share of the labor cost.

Surveys are being undertaken to determine what class of producer is being most affected by the federal government's price support program for eggs and hogs, it was indicated as the cabinet received the annual brief of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Strapped Girl Teacher, Father Awaits Penalty

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate M. W. Mulligan Wednesday postponed sentencing of a Langley farmer charged with assaulting a school teacher to allow more time for psychiatric examination of the accused.

Sigmund Sort, 37, father of eight, walked into Langley elementary school one week ago and strapped principal Miss Muriel Boskill in front of her class with a three-foot milling machine hose.

Respiration Try Failed

Heroic Officer Faces Threat Of Meningitis

NEW YORK (UPI) — If patrolman Thomas F. Reilly Jr., gets a headache or a stiff neck today, he may never see his two children again.

Just a week ago, Reilly tried to save the life of a woman who seemed to be choking to death. He used mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration. The woman, Miss Concetta Loria, 38, was dead when the ambulance arrived.

WOMAN DIES

Reilly learned later that the woman had died of highly infectuous meningitis, a disease that attacks the brain and spinal cord.

Police doctors gave the 33-year-old patrolman heavy doses of antibiotics and ordered him to stay home. They told him to stay away from his wife, Dolores, and his two children, Kathleen, 7, and Thomas, 4. The children were told he has a cold.

DO IT AGAIN

"I've given that kind of first aid before," Reilly says, "and if necessary I'll do it again."

The symptoms — headache, fever, chills, stiff neck — to appear. Reilly is waiting.

Fast Time Opposed

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—The Chamber of Commerce here has voted against daylight saving time for Alberta. The chamber decided it would be a convenience to a few and an inconvenience to a majority.

Hoses Cool Off Race Riot

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Fire hoses were turned on a mob of several thousand whites and Negroes in downtown Chattanooga yesterday breaking up a demonstration in the city's second day of racial troubles.

Mayor P. E. Olgaitti ordered the firemen to turn on the water.

CROWD MOVES

The crowd, which had milled around a three-block area for about an hour, was dispersed.

Variety stores, scene of a free-for-all Tuesday, and department stores closed their lunch counters early.

STREETS LINED

A large number of whites lined the street as a group of about 50 Negroes — most of them high school pupils — walked along the sidewalks.

Negroes in southern states are protesting segregated eating facilities.

NOTICE

The Public Utilities Commission has under consideration the need for new or revised regulations under the Cemeteries Act to deal with:

1. Instalment payments for grave spaces and in particular the size of the down payment, the provisions made for "carrying charges" and the conditions governing default in payment.
2. Special terms associated with pre-need sales of grave spaces, e.g., waiver of unpaid instalments of the purchase price in the event of death of the purchaser and provision of additional burial spaces free of charge or at a reduced rate in certain circumstances.
3. The sale of grave spaces to a corporation for re-sale and the employment of corporations as sales agents.
4. Pre-need selling of goods and services (e.g., burial vaults, grave markers, opening and closing grave, cremation), for cash or by instalments, whether separately or in combination with the sale of grave spaces, and whether by the cemetery owner or by an associated company; and the manner in which the funds are held pending delivery of the goods or performance of the services.
5. "At-need" selling of goods and services.
6. The reasonableness of restrictions by cemeteries as to the type of material and size of markers and the alloy specifications of bronze markers.
7. The operation of crematoria and the disposal and storage of cremated human remains, especially where adequate directions for disposal are not given within a reasonable time by next-of-kin.
8. Any related matters.

In order that no legitimate interest may be overlooked a public hearing will be held on March 17, 1960, in Vancouver and a public hearing will be held March 22, 1960, in Victoria to receive the views of any interested parties. Those who wish to appear at either of these hearings should notify the Secretary of the Commission prior to March 11, 1960. Any interested party unable to attend who wishes to present a point of view to the Commission may do so in writing by submitting a brief to the Secretary of the Commission prior to March 11, 1960. A public announcement giving the address of the place in which the meeting will be held and the time when it will commence will be made shortly, but each party advising the Commission of their decision to attend will receive details of the place and time by letter.

Colwood Classed 'Special'

Residents of Colwood may not know it, but their district had a "special" label attached to it after it had been surveyed by experts.

Months before the architects and the contractors were called in, Colwood had undergone an intensive scrutiny by a team of independent economic engineers retained by Capital Holdings Ltd., developers of the centre.

Their job: Run exhaustive surveys on specific areas to find which is most suitable for "neighborhood" shopping centre development.

FOUR POINTS

Colwood, according to the experts, checked out "special" on these points:

1. The road pattern from the centres of population in the area passes by or near the site.
2. The population in the area has increased over 30 per cent between the census period 1951-1956. The trend is expected to continue.
3. There is little active service in the area.
4. The fact that residents made high volume of purchases outside the area.

Estimated number of households in the area served by Colwood Plaza by 1961 is 3,260, and the average per household is 3.53.

New, Vital Industry

When Public Works Minister W. N. Chant officially opens Colwood Plaza to shoppers this morning it will mark not only a new shopping centre development, but another milestone in the industrial growth of British Columbia.

As recently as five years ago, shopping centre developments were few and far between in British Columbia.

Today, they comprise a new and vital industry which is growing rapidly all over the continent.

An explanation for the spread of this new industry comes from L. T. Hurst, president of Capital Holdings Ltd., of Vancouver, developers of Colwood Plaza.

"They were a natural followup in Canada's postwar expansion which marked such striking changes in our pattern of living—particularly the mass migration of city dwellers to the suburbs."

Centrally Situated

Colwood Plaza Shopping Centre is located on the south side of Sooke Road, 200 feet from the junction of the old Island Highway and Sooke Road.

The Plaza is situated on a gross land area approximately five acres.

It contains 17 units, including the major Shop-Easy Supermarket.

Access to the site from Langford, Metchosin, the naval establishment on Belmont Road, and Colwood, is good.

These centres of population are all within four to six minutes driving time from the Plaza at regulation speed.

It is estimated that by 1961 the shopping centre will be servicing an area embracing approximately 11,500 residents of all ages.

What Plaza Means

Colwood Plaza, the ninth shopping centre of its type in British Columbia, bears the "Plaza" name as do all Capital Holdings Ltd. projects.

A spokesman for the development firm said: "The name Plaza is used because it suggests a community meeting place with a congenial atmosphere. And, certainly, we feel Colwood Plaza will provide that.

"The ancient plazas of Spain, for example, were the community and shopping centres of their day. Indeed, the tradition continues.

"Our plaza here will, in the future, give the residents of the Colwood area much the same type of meeting place."

Canada Shuts Out Czechs, 4-0; Sweden Ties Russia in Upset

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP)—Canada moved into a first-place points tie with the United States by knocking off Czechoslovakia 4-0 Wednesday night in second round play of the Olympic hockey championship.

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Canada	2	0	0	16	0	4
U.S.	2	0	0	15	4	4
Russia	1	0	1	10	7	3
Sweden	0	1	1	5	8	1
Czechs	0	2	0	5	12	0
Germany	0	2	0	1	21	0

Goalie Don Head turned in a brilliant performance for his second straight shutout — Canada blanked Germany 12-0 in the first round—to give the Canadians a big edge in the goals average, which could be all-important if the tournament ends in a points-tie since the club with the best goals average would win the gold medal.

After two games Canada's goals record was 16-0 while the U.S. had 15-4. The Americans overwhelmed Germany 9-1 Wednesday after Monday's 6-3 win over Sweden.

The Swedes pulled the biggest upset of the tournament Wednesday night by holding Russia to a 2-2 tie.

Canada plays U.S. today at 4.30 p.m. PST.

The Canadians, who defeated Czechoslovakia 6-3 in the 1956 Olympics, jumped into a first-period 3-0 lead and added their final counter midway through the second period of a dull game.

Left wing Floyd (Butch) Martin led the Canadian scorers with two goals. Darryl Sly and George Samolenko each scored one.

Six penalties were called, four against the Canadians, who played sloppy hockey, particularly in the final 20 minutes when they were ahead 4-0.

Sly opened the scoring at 6.41 of the first period when he took a pass from Jim Connelly, circled the Czech net and put the puck in between Czech goalie Vladimir Nadrchal's skate and the goal post.

Ten minutes later, Martin got his first goal when he split the Czech defence, shot and followed the puck into the net.

Samolenko got his goal near the end of the period on passes from Fred Etcher and Moe Benoit.

Midway through the second period, Martin ended the Canadian scoring on a pass from Sly.

The Czechs who now have lost two straight, following their 8-5 loss to Russia Monday, clearly outplayed the Canadians in the final 20 minutes, but they couldn't penetrate Head, who joined the Canadian team a couple of days before the Winter Olympics began.

SHORTHANDED

The Canadians were shorthanded three times in the final period and the Czechs sent five men up but Head kicked out everything in sight. He had a total of 38 saves—16 in each of the last two periods. The Czech goalie made 36 saves.

Canada—Goal: Head; defence: Sinden, Sly, Douglas, Benoit; forwards: Attersley, Pennington, Forhan, Samolenko, Etcher, Martin, Rope, Connelly, Rousseau.

Czechoslovakia — Goal: Nadrchal; defence: Tikal, Kasper, Potch, Gut; forwards: Vlach, Starsi, Vanek, Paniucek, Bubnik, Volf, Cerny, Jirik, Colonka, Masian.

Referees: Kurt Hauser, Switzerland, and Richard Wagner, Germany.

FIRST PERIOD

1. Canada, Sly (Connelly) 6.41.
2. Canada, Martin (Pennington, Sinden) 16.45.
3. Canada, Samolenko (Etcher, Benoit) 18.22.

Penalties: Sinden 6.55, Jirik 13.28.

SECOND PERIOD

4. Canada, Martin (Sly) 11.36.

Penalties: None.

THIRD PERIOD

No scoring.

Penalties: Benoit 4.38, 12.15, Vanek 9.33, Sly 18.38.

Canadian Skater Contender For Olympic Gold Medal

SQUAW VALLEY (CP) — Canada got back into contention at the eighth Winter Olympic Games Wednesday on the same figure-skating rink where Toronto's Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner won a gold medal on the 1960 Games' opening day.

Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., one of the world's best figure-skaters, was running fourth after the first three of five compulsory figures in the men's singles competition, but the 19-year-old Canadian and North American titleholder is usually rated below his best in these school performances.

He is expected to make his real bid Friday when the free skating in which he excels winds up the medal competition. The race then is expected to be between Jackson and David Jenkins of the United States.

After Wednesday's three opening figures Jenkins was running third behind the former European champion, Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia, and Alain Giletti of France.

Divin had 415.7 aggregate points at the end of the day. Giletti scored 403.0 to Jenkins' 400.2 and Jackson's 392.0. The other competing Canadian, Donald McPherson of Stratford, Ont., was 11th with 364.0 points.

The final two compulsory figures are scheduled for today.

The two medal events of the day were featured by a Russian tying his own world record in speed skating and Austria winning back its Alpine skiing prestige in the men's slalom.

Eugeni Grishin, world champion speed skater, equalled his own world mark of 40.2 seconds in the men's 500 metres. He beat the American bid for a gold medal by California's Bill Disney by 1-10th of a second, even though he stumbled in the home stretch.

Russia advanced its unofficial points leadership to 120 as another Soviet skater, Rafael Grach came third in 40.4.

Three Canadian skaters ended up well behind in the 500 metres, with Johnny Sands of Montreal placing 27th in 42.8, Ralph Olin of Edmonton 30th in 43.1 and Larry Mason of Calgary 41st in 44.7.

BEST OF FOUR

Verne Anderson of Rossland, B.C., was the best of the four Canadians in the men's slalom which saw several of the favored competitors take tumbles that knocked them out of competition. He was 24th with a total time of 2.29.3. Don Bruneski of Rossland was 28th in 2.32.9, Fred Tommy of Ottawa 34th in 2.43.9 and Jean-Guy Brunet of Ste Agathe, Que., 45th in 2.58.0. A field of 67 skiers started but 13, including Swiss star Roger Staub and Willy Bogner of Germany, who led after the first heat, didn't finish.

Japan beat the eager but inexperienced Australians 13-2 in an afternoon game in the consolation round for the teams who were knocked out of the medal tournament.

Iron Ball Ends Home Of Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP) — They threw out the first ball—iron—at Ebbets Field Tuesday and started to knock down the former home of the Dodgers.

A delegation of the Flatbush faithful, headed by former Dodger catcher Roy Campanella and several other ball players, attended a brief ceremony to mark the start of demolishing the park to make way for a $22,250,000 housing development.

A cast iron wrecking ball, painted to resemble a baseball, was the instrument of demolition.

Sale Swift

ROME (AP) — The Italian Olympic committee says that tickets worth $1,150,000 have already been sold abroad for the Olympic Games in Rome.

Most of the tickets were sold in West Germany, Britain, the United States, Australia and France.

Cougars Heading Home With .500 Road Record

CALGARY — Victoria Cougars came to life too late Wednesday night and as a result ended their final Prairie swing of the Western Hockey League season with a 5-3 loss to Calgary Stampeders.

Manager-coach Hal Laycoe's Cougars trailed 3-0 entering the final period last night.

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Vancouver	58	36	16	6	182	137	78
Edmonton	60	32	24	4	207	201	68
Seattle	59	32	24	3	224	180	67
VICTORIA	60	31	25	4	180	157	66
Calgary	59	25	33	1	197	197	51
Winnipeg	58	22	34	2	181	203	46
Spokane	59	18	39	2	172	264	38

Last night's scores: VICTORIA 3 at Calgary 5; Edmonton 5 at Winnipeg 2.
Next games, Friday: VICTORIA at Vancouver; Winnipeg at Edmonton.

Laycoe's charges scored all their goals in the last period but could not contain the revenge-seeking Stampeders.

Calgary had dropped a 2-1 overtime decision to Victoria last Saturday and, followed by an identical loss to Winnipeg Monday, were gunning for Cougars last night.

EARLY LEAD

A crowd of 2,439 watched Stampeders run up a 3-0 lead after the first period before insuring the win with two goals in the final period.

Veteran Lou Jankowski and Norm Johnson led Calgary with two goals each while rookie Terry Grey added a single.

Victoria goals came from Gordon Fashoway, his 29th, Arlo Goodwin and defenceman Ron Matthews.

Fashoway broke Calgary goalie, and ex-teammate, Lucien Dechene's shutout at 7.41 of the third with Johnson sitting out a penalty.

ON DEFLECTION

Calgary went ahead 4-1 three minutes later with Jankowski getting his 31st goal of the season on a deflection.

Goodwin and Matthews completed Victoria's scoring with Gray's goal sandwiched between for Calgary.

Two of Calgary's five goals were deflected past Victoria goalie Marcel Pelletier by his own defencemen. Pelletier wound up with 35 saves.

RESPECTABLE

Despite the loss, Victoria ended the 10-day road trip with a respectable 3-3 record. Cougars played twice at Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg and gained a split in each city.

Cougars' loss dropped them to fourth place in league standings, one point behind Seattle Totems and two behind second-place Edmonton Flyers.

For Calgary, the win kept Stampeders' slim playoff hopes alive. Calgary is 15 points behind Victoria with only 12 games remaining, including a final coast swing.

Next game for Cougars is Friday night when Cougars play at Vancouver in the first game of a home-and-home series that concludes Saturday night at Victoria.

Victoria — Goal, Pelletier; defence, Wright, Bionda, Hay, Matthews; forwards, Blackburn, Ford, Haworth, Anderson, Goodwin, Fashoway, Macauley, Jones, Goyer, Prince.

Calgary—Goal, Dechene; defence, Hucul, Currie, Barkley, Robazza; forwards, Colwill, Blair, McLeod, Johnson, Brown, Jankowski, Gray, Blair, Finney, Leopold.

Referee, Papp; linesmen, Hamilton, Hendry.

FAN FARE

By Walt Ditzen

Edmonton in Second; Warriors Beaten, 5-2

WINNIPEG — Edmonton Flyers climbed into second place in the Western Hockey League by scoring a bruising 5-2 win over Winnipeg Warriors last night before 2,000 fans.

Scoring all their goals in the first two periods, Flyers moved into second with 68 points. Seattle Totems, idle last night, fell to third spot with 67 points.

Feature of Wednesday's game was a brawling third period. Three fights took place during the period, two of them coming at the 11 minute mark when Ted Green and Bill Folk of Winnipeg tangled with Gordon Strate and Gene Achtymichuk of Edmonton.

Edmonton—Goal: Bolsvert; defence: MacPherson, Coflin, Marcon, Strate; forwards: Dejordy, Holmes, Polle, Achtymichuk, Hynes, Diachuk, Labossiere, McNeill, Solmger.

Winnipeg—Goal: Mikulan; defence: Folk, Green, Bergman, Johns; forwards: Nicholson, Waslawski, Lamoureux, Ross, Masnick, Witiuk, Brisson, Brunel, Johansen, Redahl.

Let's Fill The Arena

Victoria Cougars' Booster Club is hoping to receive support from local fans for a "Fill Memorial Arena Night" to be held Saturday with Vancouver Canucks visiting in a Western Hockey League game.

Booster Club officials ask that regular fans bring a friend to Saturday night's game to help in the project.

New Date for Amateur

The B.C. Golf Association has sanctioned a change of dates for the B.C. Amateur Championship to be played at Uplands this summer.

Scheduled originally for the week starting July 18 to July 23, it has been brought forward by one week to July 11-16.

The reason for the change is that it will bring the B.C. Amateur along immediately after the Pacific Northwest Association championship which is being held at Victoria Golf Club July 4-9.

It is hoped that some of the U.S. players taking part in the PNGA will take advantage of the change and stop over in Victoria to participate in the provincial competition.

The B.C. Junior Championship which was originally scheduled for Vancouver on July 11-12 has also been postponed one week to July 18-19 to avoid a clash with the B.C. Amateur's new date.

Five Cage Berths Available In Eight-Team Tournament

By LARRY ROSE

Second of three zone tournaments for Vancouver Island teams attempting to advance to next month's B.C. High School Basketball Tournament begins Friday at Victoria High with four games scheduled.

Eight schools will compete in the annual Upper-Lower Vancouver Island zone tournament. The tourney is a single-knockout event with the top five teams advancing to the Vancouver Island final, March 4-5 at Nanaimo.

Local teams competing in the tourney at Victoria High are the host Totems, Oak Bay, Belmont and Mount View.

Up-Island entries are Courtenay Towhees, Alberni District Chieftains, Tsolum and Campbell River.

Courtenay and Alberni are considered the strongest Up-Island schools while Victoria High and Oak Bay head the Lower-Island schools.

Totems and Towhees met in the B.C. final at Vancouver last year with Victoria High being the first Vancouver Island team ever to win the provincial tournament.

FIRST GAME

Playing in the first game Friday at 5 p.m. are Oak Bay and Tsolum. Mount View and Courtenay play in game two at 6.15.

Alberni and Belmont meet at 7.30 while Victoria High and Campbell River play in the feature Friday game at 8.45 p.m.

Play continues Saturday with consolation games at 10.30 a.m., 11.45 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2.15 p.m.

Semi-finals and finals will be held Saturday. Game times are 5.30 p.m., 6.45, 8 p.m. and 9.15 p.m.

Mount Douglas, Victoria High and Mount Newton will be local representatives at the Vancouver Island senior girls high school basketball tournament to be held Friday and Saturday at Ladysmith.

FAVORITES

Undefeated Mount Douglas is one of the favorites in the eight-team tournament.

B.C. tournament for senior girls will be held March 11 and 12 at Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

Victoria University Vikings open a two-game total-point Pacific Coast junior men's basketball series Friday night at Mount View against Vancouver YMCA.

Game time Friday is 9 p.m. Final game goes Saturday night, also at Mount View, at 9 o'clock.

★ ★ ★

Oak Bay all but clinched a berth in the final of the high school senior soccer competition for the Colonist Cup by edging Milnes Landing, 3-0, Wednesday afternoon at Carnarvon Park.

UNBEATEN

Unbeaten in five games, Oak Bay led 2-0 at the half. John Youson, John Rostron and Russ Selwood were Oak Bay scorers, while goalkeeper John Fraser posted his fourth shutout.

Other games saw Belmont down Esquimalt 4-0 at Esquimalt and Mount Douglas edge Victoria High 3-2.

Warren Chapman scored twice in Belmont's win, while Bill Spotswood and Pat Warrington added singles.

Mount Douglas handed Victoria High a third straight defeat at Reynolds Road Park and moved into a tie for second place with Mount View.

Jill Kinmont Watches from Wheelchair

Can't Keep Her Off the Mountain

By OSCAR FRALEY

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)— The wind ruffled her brown hair and you could see her heart in her eyes, for she should have been racing down those snowy slopes herself.

There was a time when she did, and with the best of them. For she was an Olympic skiing hopeful five years ago at the tender age of 17.

Now all Jill Kinmont could do was sit and watch—chained by paralysis to a chromium wheelchair.

But they couldn't keep her away.

It is a thing, the grip this sport has for her, which is of the soul as well as of the body. The once-lithe form sits immobile now from a back broken in a skiing accident. The arms move weakly. The hands are twisted in the cursed position of the paraplegic.

Yet the head moves — and smiles.

And Monday as officials prepared to start the men's downhill run in the Winter Olympic Games the smile was big under the haunted eyes as Jill came back to the slopes once again.

They brought her up, tenderly, in a churning snowcat, an open carriage mounted on caterpillar treads. They put the wheelchair in a cleared spot beside the press box and lowered her gently into the rigid embrace of its metal arms.

She belonged at the press section because Jill, at 22, a junior at UCLA, is writing an analytical column on the Games for a Los Angeles newspaper.

Skiers swished past on all sides but Jill had eyes only for the dangerous, deadly pitch of the downhill course ending at the feet which no longer will wear skis. She knows them well and has ridden them more often in her memory than she ever did in the days when she dreamed of being in these very games.

"Too bad the girls didn't do any better," she said softly as they wrapped a blanket around her khaki jacket, covering the twisted red-clover hands.

She was referring wistfully to the ladies' downhill, in which favored Penny Pitou finished second but the rest of the U.S. team, Betsy Snite, Joan Hannah and her own protege, Linda Meyers, finished out of the money.

"They were very blue about it," Jill explained. "They went all out. You do in something like this. It's do or die, no matter how it turns out."

She stopped as what she had said struck home.

It had been one of those do or die efforts which ended her career, and the memory of it momentarily wiped away the smile.

Jill had come roaring fearlessly down one of those steep, snow-polished slopes like the one in front of her. But she never reached the bottom. There came the crackup that the "schussboomers" — those who take the straightaway slopes at full speed—all fear far down underneath.

That was in January of 1955 at Alta, Utah. Jill has never walked since that day and probably never will again.

But they can't keep her off the mountain.

Nor can they wipe away that gallant smile.

Skeena River Yields 92-Pounder

Record Tyee Takes Award

NEW YORK (CP) — Salmon from Canada's coasts took the spotlight in Field and Stream magazine's 1959 fishing contest. A giant tyee smashed a record of 49 years' standing.

The new tyee king is Heinz Weichmann of Terrace, B.C., with a 92-pounder caught last July 19 in the Skeena River of British Columbia on a Luhr Jensen Krokodile lure. He used 25-pound monafilament line. It takes over first place in the record books from F. R. Steel's 83-pounder, landed in Oregon's Umpqua River in 1910.

The authoritative outdoor magazine, which compiles fresh-water game fish records, announces the first instalment of last year's contest results in its March issue.

Biggest Atlantic salmon was a bruiser from New Brunswick's famed Restigouche River, which weighed in at an even 50 pounds. The record of 79 pounds is held in Norway.

Angling guide Jack Anderson of Flatlands, N.B., took the prize June 10 with a yellow rat fly.

BIGGEST BROOKIE

Quebec also placed two large fish in the Atlantic salmon category and accounted for the biggest brook trout. Gods River in northern Manitoba produced another big brookie and Gods Lake led the lake trout parade, while Ontario in a notable achievement shared first place for smallmouth bass.

C. Charbonneau of Montreal turned in the top brook trout in the open division—for those caught by methods other than fly-fishing. Charbonneau was using spinning gear and the reliable Dardevle lure when the big one of 10 lbs. 9 ozs. took hold in Batiment Lake, near St. Jovite, 65 miles northwest of Montreal.

Biggest fly-caught brook trout weighed 8 lbs. 7 ozs. It was caught by D. B. Roesner of Fullerton, Calif., in Gods River, about 350 miles north of Winnipeg, on a fly he tied himself.

Three other fish in the open division surpassed Roesner's. There were two of 9¼ pounds, caught by Mrs. Norma McNamara of Sylvan Lake, Alta., in North Prairie Creek in the Rocky Mountain foothills, and Thomas McCormick of North Bay, Ont., at Blue Lake in Northern Ontario's Chapleau district.

Foote Lake, not far from the Blue, gave up one of 8 lbs. 10½ ozs. to Ernie Gurica of Winnipeg.

Wess Jensen of Albert Lea, Minn., and Aaron Karchmer of Centralia, Ill., took fish of 50¼ and 50 lbs. 1 oz. respectively from Gods Lake to top the lake trout division. Three from Idaho's Priest Lake followed.

NATIVE FISH

B.C. waters, as usual, accounted for most of the tyee which are native only to the Pacific coast. F. Maurice McGregor of Vancouver was second to Weichmann with a 74-pounder from Rivers Inlet on the mainland about 60 miles north of the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

B.C. lost the leadership in coho salmon but swept all other placings behind Milton Hain's 22-pounder from Paper Mill Creek in California.

Mack J. Smieszny's 8½-pound Ontario beauty shared the smallmouth lead, usually taken by the southern states, with one caught by Joseph E. Zebrowski in Massachussetts' Forest Lake. Smieszny, of Toledo, Ohio, took his on a live frog in Ontario's Three Trails Lake, 30 miles north of North Bay.

TOP FIVE

Other placings in the top five:

Tyee salmon—4. Mrs. A. Crossland, Port Alberni, B.C., 64 lbs. 7 ozs., near her Vancouver Island home.

Coho salmon—2. R. A. Day, West Vancouver, 19 lbs. 10 ozs., near Copper River on the Skeena; 3. William Hart, Sandspit, B.C., 19 lbs. 3 ozs., Copper River; 4. Gary Stensaker, Sandspit, 17 lbs. 4 ozs., Copper River; 5. Irma Morel, Nanaimo, B.C., 17 lbs. 2 ozs., Kelsey Bay on the east side of Vancouver Island.

Toronto's Tuned Up For Battle for Cup

Toronto Maple Leafs, it appears, are again winding up a National Hockey League season in top form.

They finished with a rush last spring to sneak into the Stanley Cup playdowns, got all the way to the final before learning they weren't equipped to handle Montreal Canadiens.

This season, the Leafs have a playoff berth all but clinched and should finish in second place. They have been riveting their position down in recent games, last night made it four wins in their last five starts by outscoring Canadiens 3-1.

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Montreal	59	35	13	11	219	149	81
Toronto	59	29	22	8	165	161	66
Detroit	59	22	24	13	159	167	57
Chicago	59	23	26	10	164	158	56
Boston	59	24	29	6	192	209	54
New York	59	14	33	12	161	216	40

Last night's scores: Montreal 1 at Toronto 3; Detroit 2 at New York 2.
Next games: Saturday—New York at Montreal; Detroit at Toronto; Boston at Chicago

It was a signal triumph for the improving Leafs. In 10 previous games this season against the league and Stanley Cup champions their only points came from a 1-0 victory and a 1-1 tie. They lost the other eight games, managed only 16 goals in the 10 games.

Leafs employed Montreal's chief weapon—the power play—to fashion the win. Their first and third goals came with Canadiens shorthanded, their second with the Canadiens striving to take advantage of a Toronto penalty.

Canadiens, still without Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore, appeared to have scored in the first period when Ralph Backstrom pushed the puck over the goalline. Alert Johnny Bower promptly fished it out, goal judge Grant Easson claimed it as no goal and referee Frank Udvari, who missed the play, had to go along with Easson's ruling.

BITTER PROTEST

A bitter Montreal protest ended with the inevitable result. The dispute helped enliven a rugged game which was featured by a fight between Canadiens' Marcel Bonin and Leafs' Gerry James. It ended when Bonin flattened the big Toronto forward with a tremendous right.

In last night's other game, Terry Sawchuk returned to the Detroit goal and played standout hockey as the Wings gained a 2-2 tie with New York Rangers.

Sawchuk stopped 29 shots and lost the victory on a disputed goal which was to cost him a misconduct penalty for expressing his opinion about it too forcefully.

The one point enabled Wings to take over third place by themselves. For Rangers, it meant a three-game unbeaten streak since Al Rollins was obtained to fill in for Lorne Worsley in goal. In getting two ties and a win, Rollins has allowed seven goals but he has been solid every game.

City Edges Brentwood

Victoria edged Brentwood 35-28 Tuesday night at Mount View gym in the opening game of a two-game, total-point series for the Vancouver Island junior women's basketball title.

Sylvia Wedman and Carol Casilio led Victoria in Tuesday's game with 11 and 10 points respectively. Daphne Sluggett topped Brentwood with 18 points.

Another game at Mount View saw Naval Vets swamp Dockyard 50-18 to win the city senior "B" women's championship. Naval Vets won the two-game, total-point series 89-37.

Ball Leagues For Chemainus

CHEMAINUS — A meeting of Chemainus Community Centre directors recently investigated the possibility of baseball and softball leagues here for the coming season.

Indications are that Senior baseball will be revived.

Material for a softball league, a ladies league, a pony league, and possibly a Firemen's league appear to be available, in all some 15 to 17 teams.

Heaneys Top Table Tennis With Victory

Heaneys moved to the top of the Victoria Table Tennis League standings by defeating Island Tug 11-7 in a recent game.

Laurie Greenwood and Ron Gough each won five games for Heaneys while Martin Woods led Island Tug with four wins.

Other game saw Speedway Motors swamp Braves 12-0 with Ron Pye, Jim Davison and George Clarke winning four games each.

Heaneys now lead the league with 10 points. Island Tug is second with eight points, followed by Speedway Motors with six and Braves with two.

Un-American Activities Chief:

There Are So Reds in U.S. Churches!

Probe and Counter-Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Committee on un-American activities called Air Force Secretary Dudley Sharp to a closed session Wednesday to ask about the withdrawal of an air force manual linking some churches with Communism.

Chairman Francis Walter, a Pennsylvania Democrat, has contended that the charges presented in the manual are true. He said Sharp would be asked why the training publication was withdrawn after a protest by the National Council of Churches.

Two other House committees are laying the groundwork for investigations taking the opposite tack. They want to know how the controversial manual came to be issued in the first place.

Rep. Donald Jackson, California Republican, a member of the committee on un-American activities, said the inquiry was "to find out what sort of an investigation they made on the charges in the manual before they withdrew it."

Rep. August Johansen, Michigan Republican, said he thought Sharp's "repudiation of the basic warning contained in the manual was a bit hasty."

He said the whole question of Communism in religion had been put in "good perspective" by FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover when he said there were Communists trying to infiltrate the churches.

Rep. Clyde Doyle, California Democrat, another committee member, said, "I feel it was a tragic mistake for the air force to publish an attack on American religion and the right to know."

But Doyle went on to say he felt "the whole thing must be gone into clearly and fully by every pertinent committee of Congress."

Defence Secretary Thomas Gates has said he was "startled and stunned" by the contents of the air force manual which contained these quotes:

"Communists and Communist fellow travellers have successfully infiltrated our churches."

"It is well known that even the pastors of certain of our churches are card-carrying Communists."

The manual said that 30 of the 95 persons who worked on the revised standard version of the Bible have been affiliated with Communist front organizations.

The publication also questioned the right of the public to certain information. It said "another foolish remark often heard is that Americans have the right to know what's going on."

Doctor's Claim

Nagging Wife Can Be Fatal For Husband

LONDON (Reuters)—A wife's tongue can literally be deadly, a doctor warns.

So can the odd jobs around the house she stacks up for her work-weary husband to do, Dr. Kenneth Hutchin claims, although wives who deliberately set out to kill their husbands are in a minority.

"On the other hand, a great many wives could not polish them off better if they tried," he writes in the monthly magazine Family Doctor.

The nagging tongue and the do-it-yourself trend in handling odd jobs are two serious threats to the husband's health, Dr. Hutchin says.

All men in their 40s and over, who do non-manual work and therefore get insufficient exercise, are heart attack risks.

"Admittedly it costs far more to have jobs done, but it is a poor economy to do-it-yourself if it kills your husband. You may find it difficult to come by another."

Ice-Break Lotteries Legalized in Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—The Alaska legislature voted Wednesday to make it legal for Alaskans to bet on when the ice will break up in the Tanana River.

Both Houses approved a measure to legalize non-profit bingo games, raffles, lotteries and ice pool lotteries.

More than $200,000 annually is wagered in the lotteries. Holders of tickets with the exact time the ice goes out get most of the money.

'Bobo' the Bat Betrayed By TV Starring Role

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even bats must have passports

One arrived from India six weeks ago in a shipment of animals and slipped past immigration officers. It has a wing span of 4½ feet.

The bat was made a pet at an animal nursery at Coney Island, where it was named "Bobo," then appeared on television.

Bobo was spotted by immigration officials who took it into custody for illegal entry, explaining that it eats fruit and orchard crops might suffer.

Woman Doctor's Triumph

Thigh of Dead Man Grafted Onto Youth

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet woman surgeon has successfully transplanted the thigh of a corpse onto a young man, Moscow radio claimed yesterday.

The broadcast quoted a report by Tass, the Soviet news agency, as saying Dr. Maria Panova of Moscow's central institute of traumatology orthopedics, performed the operation two years ago. The thigh came from a young man killed in a traffic accident, it said.

The transplanted thigh is living normally and the man soon will discard the light orthopedic apparatus he is using while the graft takes hold, the broadcast said.

The broadcast reported that the institute's director, Dr. Nikolai Priorov, said human limbs, specially treated pieces of skin, cartilage and sinews are regularly taken from corpses for transplanting in patients.

'I Didn't Mean It' Threatened MP Told

OTTAWA (CP)—A scribbled note received yesterday by Member of Parliament Frank McGee said "I didn't mean it."

The note was a follow-up to one of two threatening letters received last week by the Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough.

It was written in the same illiterate hand and on a similar two-inch-high scrap of paper as the original letter which threatened Mr. McGee and his family because he was sponsoring a bill in the Commons to abolish capital punishment.

Yesterday's note, bearing an Ottawa postmark, but unsigned, expressed "sincere regret."

Hours Set

Four Days To Get New Plates

Four full shopping days remain for those who have not yet obtained their 1960 motor vehicle licences.

John Striha, in charge of the motor vehicle branch's plate sales, said yesterday his office would be open all day Saturday, as well as today, Friday and Monday, from 8.30 a.m. until 5 p.m. for the sale of licence plates.

NOT EVENING

The office will NOT be open Friday evening.

Sales will continue from Tuesday on, of course, but those who have to go down will have to get a lift. Cars with 1959 plates will be ticketed if seen on city streets after midnight Monday—even if just parked

SLOW START

Plate sales, after a slow start in January, have caught up this month, Mr. Striha said. He had just checked sales slips for the same date in 1959, and found the same numbers going out both years.

"So we're just even," he said, "although this doesn't take into account any increase in the number of cars in Victoria."

UP TO 70,000

Provision has been made for that increase, however. Licence plates 2 to 70,000 were reserved for Victoria this year. In 1959 they went up to 67,500.

Plate No. 1 is not included in this number because it is not issued. Logical possessors — Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross or Premier W. A. C. Bennett—either don't need it or don't want it.

MORE ASKED

Of the so-called "special numbers" which may be reserved and kept from year to year, Mr. Striha said these run only from 2 to 3,000.

This year 200 more applications for special numbers were received than were available.

Bow Bells Ring Again —Recorded

LONDON (Reuters) — London's famous Bow Bells rang out Wednesday after 19 years of silence—but on a record.

The 12 bells in St. Mary le Bow church, whose call in 1375 brought Dick Whittington back three times to become Lord Mayor of London, were played on a record when Princess Margaret attended a ceremony consecrating the church's restored crypt.

The church was gutted by Nazi bombs in 1941.

When restoration of the church is completed in a year, the old bells will be returned to the church tower.

Space Stranger U.S. Capsule

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The defence department said Tuesday the mysterious object recently discovered in a polar orbit around the earth probably is the capsule of the Discoverer V space vehicle launced by the U.S. last Aug. 16.

Four Slain in Gunfight Before Madman Shot

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A berserk mountaineer killed four persons—three of them women—and wounded at least five others Wednesday before police killed him in a blazing gun battle.

Dan Raymond, 42, a pipeline walker for a natural gas company, was shot dead after he dived from a second-storey window of the house where he had been holed up for eight hours.

State trooper Jack Bingham opened up with a machine gun behind the protection of an army tank as Raymond made a desperate move to drive off in his car.

Two of the women were found outside Raymond's home at Chalk Hill, eight miles east of Uniontown. The third woman was found in a car several hundred feet from the house.

Inside the car police found the woman's wounded husband and two small children.

Slain earlier was William Burd, 49, a highways maintenance worker.

Burd was shot after he and a co-worker, Robert Rickey, had stopped to put cinders on Raymond's driveway.

Police surrounded the house and kept exchanging gunfire with Raymond—an avid hunter and an expert marksman—but could not approach the house, nestled in a field with no trees or protective covering for about 300 feet on all sides.

State police then obtained a tank from an army reserve unit. They lobbed tear gas shells and one set fire to the house. Raymond then tried to flee.

East or West

'Who'll Hold Algeria?'

French Envoy In City

France, for centuries one of the leaders in the Western World, is in the vanguard again today — fighting alone in Algeria for all that the West stands for.

Francis Lacoste, France's ambassador to Canada, emphasized this point in a speech yesterday to a meeting of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs of Victoria.

EXILES INSIST

"In spite of the promise of self-determination," said the ambassador, "an Algerian 'government in exile' insists on recognition.

"Who chose this 'government?' No one. There has never been one popular demonstration in their favor. How could they be recognized? Such a step would be betrayal of Algeria—and this France will not do.

NOT REALLY

"The fate of Algeria is not really in the hands of the Algerians. It should be, but it is not.

"The rebellion there has been instigated, financed and armed by sources outside. All this is aimed at terrorizing by wanton killing of men, women and children.

IMPOSSIBLE

"There is only one object: to make a return to complete peace impossible.

"Algeria holds the key to domination of the Mediterranean. The question is, who will hold that key—the West or the East?

"It is an issue of great moment, not only to Algeria and France, but to all the world. The consequences will be far-reaching."

LEADING POSITION

Mr. Lacoste outlined the leading position held by France through the years in exploration, science, achievement.

"France has not always been first, and has not been everywhere—but nearly so," he said. "She has not always been a winner—but only those who never try suffer no reverses. Having tried so often, France has some scars of failure."

GREAT STRIDES

France, he said, has made tremendous strides in the years since the Second World War in reconstruction, new production and the regaining and expansion of her markets.

"So she's doing fine. So how come the political revolution?"

This he explained by comparison with an aging engine.

"It starts showing signs of wear. You have it fixed—but signs of fatigue multiply until finally you can't get it to start at all.

"This is what happened to France's political and governmental machinery. It began to knock and rattle in February, 1958, and finally fell to pieces in May of that year."

TOOK INITIATIVE

It was at this time that a group of men took the initiative, said the ambassador. They, with all France, turned to the leader who had come forward in 1940—a man who had held himself in reserve for 12 years.

"They turned to Gen. de Gaulle—and he proved a stickler for legality. He knew he had to conform with the law before he could reform it. It was not easy. He won his battle—but it was a legal battle, and France now has a constitution approved by 79.25 per cent of the popular vote."

'Kind Soul' Wanted To Borrow Baby

TORQUAY, England (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Brian Williams are looking for "some kind soul" who will borrow their 11-month-old son for two years.

Williams, 20, said he and his wife wanted to lend out young Terry to someone who would "give him a good start in life."

"After two years we will have enough money to get established," Williams said. "Then we would take Terry back."

Clothes Set Indians Apart

WINNIPEG (CP) — An Indian mining consultant from Ottawa said Wednesday that if there is any discrimination against his race in Canada it is economic rather than racial.

Dr. Gilbert Monture, full-blooded Iroquois born on the Six Nations' reserve near Brantford, Ont., is in Winnipeg to address the sixth annual Metis and Indian conference.

Dr. Monture said: "If anything, my Indian ancestry has been more or less an 'open sesame.' I've never been given the feeling I wasn't acceptable."

The economic discrimination Canada's Indians encounter today, he said, is the same type of discrimination a ragged white might encounter if he wandered into a high-class restaurant.

"When an Indian comes into a city off the reserve, he isn't as well dressed as his white neighbors. If he goes into a hotel or a restaurant, his economic condition sets him apart from others.

"There can be what you might call a cosmetic discrimination, too, in the case of a man who doesn't have the facilities to take a bath every morning. You're bound to get a little rancid under those conditions.

"At the adolescent level, where you're beginning to cast sheep's eyes at women, or they at you—I never could decide which was which—is where the problem begins to hurt, if it's going to hurt at any time.

"I'm married to a non-Indian, but it was just a matter of propinquity. We've been married 38 years, so I think it has worked out."

Dr. Monture said he had considered returning to a reserve to bring some of his ideas to Indians there. He decided against it because non-Indians might consider it an acknowledgement of failure, and reserve Indians might consider him an outsider.

"Perhaps I can do more in the field in which I am, letting it be known I am an Indian, meeting people on their own grounds, asking no favors.

"It sounds egotistical, but I do feel that maybe some boy back on the reserve will say 'if that clown can do it, why cant's I?' "

Author Wiped Out by BBC

LONDON (Reuters)—The BBC, highly embarrassed, yesterday cancelled a recorded talk by novelist Graham Greene. A spokesman explained: "It was accidentally erased from the tape on which it was recorded."

Greene had agreed reluctantly to record a talk about the influence of his Roman Catholic faith on his writings. He has refused to record it again.

The BBC had advertised the broadcast widely, pointing out that the shy author rarely speaks in public.

Da Vinci Painting Found?

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Academy has announced what could be the art discovery of the century.

It said a painting called The Virgin and the Child, owned by the Sheffield Art Gallery and now on loan to the academy, may have been painted by Leonardo da Vinci at the age of 18.

Angry Tories Trade Jibes In Bitter Clash

OTTAWA (UPI)—Conservative ranks opened Wednesday in the House of Commons when two Maritime Tories clashed in the angriest one-party dispute since the Diefenbaker government took office in 1957.

The combatants were firebrand J. C. Van Horne from New Brunswick's Restigouche-Madawaska and Halifax's Robert McCleave.

SIDELINE JUDGE

Referee was Deputy Speaker Jacques Flynn (PC, Quebec South) and Newfoundland Liberal J. W. Pickersgill acted as a sideline judge during the 15-minute argument.

The Halifax Tory rose to protest statements made by Van Horne last week when McCleave moved adjournment of a debate highlighted by Van Horne's offer to resign.

PERSONAL ATTACK

In a flurry of shouts of "point of order," Van Horne charged McCleave making a personal attack on him and was "all wrong."

"I am not going to put up with any tomfoolery," Van Horne said. "There is no horse sense in what you say and there will be horse sense as long as I am here."

McCleave shot back: "You will have to hang yourself then."

OUT OF ORDER

Argument ended when committee chairman Flynn agreed with Pickersgill's point of order and ruled McCleave's remarks out of order

Van Horne criticized McCleave for adjourning a debate on a bill to provide unemployment insurance benefits for Canadian woodsmen in Maine.

The controversial MP, who often criticizes his own party, said he was "shocked" by McCleave's "excuse" that some members who wanted to speak in the debate were delayed by a snowstorm.

TOOK ISSUE

McCleave said he took issue with Van Horne's "pale Billingsgate."

"There was no attack made on you except to suggest that you look after your problems in Halifax and stop obstructing my looking after unemployment problems in Restigouche-Madawaska," Van Horne said.

Nearly 1,000 At Rites For Spencer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nearly 1,000 persons crowded St. Andrew's Wesley United Church here Wednesday for the funeral of Col. Victor Spencer, who died Sunday at 78 in Pasadena, Calif.

"He did many good deeds without a blare of trumpets," said Rev. C. A. Williams in the eulogy.

Active pallbearers were members and coaches of Canada's Olympic rowing team.

Japan Leads Shipbuilders

LONDON (Reuters)—World commercial shipbuilding slumped by about six per cent last year, says the annual Lloyd's survey.

Japan retained its place as the major shipbuilding nation for the fourth year in succession, turning out almost one-fifth of the recorded 9,000,000 tons of shipping launched in 1959. Britain was second, West Germany third.

Actors Talk Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Screen Actors Guild will resume negotiations today in a last-ditch attempt to avert a strike against major movie studios. The strike is to start March 7.

Green, Fulton, Hamilton Due To Resume Columbia Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Three members of the federal cabinet will fly to Victoria Friday to resume talks with the B.C. government on the Columbia River.

External Affairs Minister Green, Justice Minister Fulton and Resources Minister Hamilton will hold talks with B.C. cabinet members aimed at presenting a united front in negotiataions with the U.S. a week later.

The two levels of government were reported in accord after B.C. ministers visited Ottawa prior to the opening here Feb. 11-12 of Canada-U.S. negotiations on co-operative development of the Columbia.

A government source said the Victoria meeting is designed to prepare for resumption of international negotiations March 4-5 in Washington.

Canada and the U.S. are seeking agreement on the basis of recommendations of the international joint commission that the two countries share equally the hydro and flood control benefits gained by the U.S. from Canadian-stored Columbia water.

Centenary of the Crease

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—My tailor, Mister Brogan, downed his shears for a minute yesterday in silent tribute to an event that the rest of the world, even Savile Row, seems to have forgotten.

One hundred years ago yesterday—as near as history can place it—a man drew on the first pair of creased trousers.

His name was the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII.

Mister Brogan says it happened like this:

The prince ordered one of his many new suits from his tailor. When he went for the final try-on, however, he found that because of the way the pants had been folded for storage, that instead of being tubular there was a crease running down the centre of each leg.

The prince decided to try the trousers on as they were and have the crease ironed out later. He liked what he saw in the mirror.

"Make me look a bit slimmer, eh?" he declared.

Everybody agreed — they didn't dare do otherwise — and the prince decided to have all his trousers creased from then on. So a new fashion was born.

The prince's new fashion caught on everywhere, even the United States and Europe, but not in his own family. There his eldest son, later King George V, led what might be called a palace revolution.

He always had his own pants pressed with the creases running down the sides.

Communists at Top

Electrical Union Chiefs Called To Answer Ballot-Rigging Charge

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's top labor union authority decided Wednesday to put Communist bosses of the Electrical Trades Union on trial on charges of ballot-rigging that have rocked organized labor in this country.

The decision was taken unanimously by the general council of the 8,000,000-member Trades Union Congress.

The council ordered a full-scale inquiry and summoned leaders of the 220,000-member ETU to appear before it.

"Grave concern was expressed by the general council at the continuing accusations made publicly about the way the affairs of the ETU are conducted," a TUC statement declared. The charges say that elections are rigged to produce Communist victories.

Khrushchev, Sukarno Outline Secret 'Basis for Agreement'

BALI, Indonesia (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Indonesian President Sukarno were reported today to have outlined a "basis for agreement" here in secret talks that were haunted by the spectre of Red China.

Although no details of the negotiations were made available, an announcement said the Soviet and Indonesian leaders met for 2½ hours in a Balinese mountain hideaway in an atmosphere of "friendliness" and "deep understanding."

Later, as Sukarno showed Khrushchev a display of Balinese handicraft ranging from weaving to woodcraft, the Russian leader was heard to remark with wonder:

"Maker of miracles!"

Put Them All Together They Spell P-E-A-C-?

LONDON (UPI) — A writer to the London Daily Mirror suggested yesterday that Queen Elizabeth give the new prince a name beginning with the letter "E."

Then the Royal Family names which now include Philip, Elizabeth, Anne and Charles would spell "peace," the writer pointed out.

They Laughed at Century Sam

Furore 'Stupid,' Says Williston

People Like B.C. Flag—Only 'Artistic Set' Objects

The centennial flag, around which the proposed provincial flag has been designed, was widely accepted by the people of British Columbia, although it was opposed by the artistic set, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston told the legislature yesterday.

Mr. Williston said he was really the one who got the provincial flag question started.

"I said it would be a fine thing if B.C. had a flag of its own. The House voted for it and voted unanimously . . . and it was given a mock-up at the time," he said.

"Now we hear about fish rag . . . I just wonder how stupid we can get," Mr. Williston said. "We have done as this House wanted. If the House or the people of B.C. don't want it as a flag, okay. If you have any good ideas, let's have them."

Mr. Williston said when the centennial committee first came out with Century Sam there was terrible reaction . . . "and yet it became a symbol accepted everywhere."

He said the centennial committee had sent out numerous poster designs to advertise the centennial. "When applications came back to use the posters, the ones requested were the very ones thrown out by the artist fraternity. The one most used was the one with the dogwood symbol," he said.

He referred to the centennial sculpture contest. "In the end we paid them off not to make their designs," he said.

He said the centennial flag was designed by Cy Connorton of the Queen's Printer staff.

He said criticism came from artists, but "the people happened to like it and use it."

Give Thetis to B.C. for Park? No Dice, Say Two Aldermen

Each Two-Cent Flip Burned $90 in Trees

Smokers who started forest fires in British Columbia last year caused an average of $90 damage from their two-cent cigarets. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston told the legislature yesterday that 211 forest fires last year were caused by careless smokers. He said these fires burned through 924 acres and cost the forest service $56,790 to put out.

PAT SHEPPARD

Nature Body Requesting Donation

Two Victoria city councillors said last night they are opposed to making a gift of Thetis Lake Park to the B.C. government.

If their opposition is shared by a majority of council it could effectively kill a plan to turn the 1,200-acre watershed over to the recreation and conservation department of the B.C. government as a future provincial park.

'WORTH A LOT'

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said the property is "worth a lot of money."

"I am strongly opposed to the city giving away any of its assets," he said.

GIVING AWAY?

City parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney agreed, saying "I don't approve of giving anything away—this is an asset of the people of Victoria.

"As far as giving it away, I say no dice."

But he said it would be another matter if the province offered to "make a reasonable offer" for the area and "promised to retain it as a park."

REQUEST COMING

The statements came on the eve of a request by the Thetis Lake Nature Sanctuary Association that the city offer the area to the province.

Edmund H. Lohbrunner, association president, said it was his group's idea that the city would donate the land to the province in return for a commitment that it would be developed as a provincial park.

OFFER SPURNED

He said the city previously offered to give the area to the province at the same time Goldstream Park area was taken over from the Greater Victoria water district.

The province took Goldstream but declined Thetis Lake, he said.

COUNTER

Meanwhile, if efforts to have the area taken over as a provincial park bog down, his association would probably revert to its earlier position that it would help raise some $5,200 for Thetis Lake park development.

The money would only be turned over to the city, he said, if the association received a commitment that council would reject a B.C. Electric application to pay a like sum for a powerline easement through the area and would pledge the 1,200 acres to perpetual park use.

Six Banks Pledge $65,000 to Campus

Six chartered banks will donate $65,000 to the Victoria University building fund, a spokesman said yesterday. The pledges were: Canadian Bank of Commerce, $15,000; Bank of Montreal, $15,000; Royal Bank of Canada, $15,000; Bank of Nova Scotia, $7,500; Toronto-Dominion Bank, $7,500, and Imperial Bank, $5,000.

Dowding Charges:

Servant Board Just a Facade

'Nothing Changed'

The board of reference to decide civil service disputes has been made to appear as collective bargaining, whereas it is nothing of the sort, Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) charged last night.

Two out of the three board members are employees of the government and only certain decisions of the board will be made public and will be final and binding on the parties to the dispute, he said.

NOT BINDING

"Major decisions of the board on salary increases and working conditions will not be made public and will not be final and binding—they will merely be referred to the cabinet," he said.

"In short, this means that there is really no change from the present system whereby the Civil Service Commission refers its decisions on salaries to the cabinet.

POLICY GOES ON

"The cabinet can then continue its present policy of ignoring the recommendations passed to it and can continue its present policy of refusing to discuss or notify the employees' association of its decision," he said.

He said one of the worst features of the board is the attempt to give an air of authenticity by appointing Dr. Hugh Keenleyside as its chairman. Dr. Keenleyside is chairman of the B.C. Power Commission.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other board members will be a nominee of the Civil Service Commission and a nominee of either the employee with a grievance or the employees' association.

Mr. Dowding charged that the government is using the highly-respected name of Dr. Keenleyside as a "window dressing for its political gimmicks, such as this latest board of review, which will have no authority whatsoever to arbitrate on salaries and working conditions."

NAME USED

Mr. Dowding said Dr. Keenleyside can prove to be invaluable to B.C., but that it is completely unethical for the government to keep continuing to use his name as it has.

Dr. Keenleyside is also a member of the B.C. Energy Board, which Mr. Dowding described as "completely ineffective and its policy controlled by the government."

Plan to Find New Alcoholics

A special program designed to help employers discover early cases of alcoholism and bring them to treatment, has been designed by the Alcoholism Foundation of B.C.

The plan is described in a publication, Alco-Plan for Business and Industry, which will be distributed to all leading B.C. industries upon request.

Disclosure of the plan came in the annual report of the health department for the year ending Dec. 31, 1959, which was released in the legislature yesterday.

"A great deal of economic and human waste is created by the problem drinker in business and industry," the report said.

It said the foundation prepared its plan "to assist employers with this vexing and little understood matter in individual health."

2,000 A YEAR

The Alcoholism Foundation is partly sponsored by government subsidy and is located in Vancouver.

The health report said alcoholism is increasing in B.C. at an alarming rate of 2,000 cases a year.

The foundation in 1959 had 406 new cases admitted, 85 cases re-entered for treatment, 197 other persons sought information about problem cases and services available, 5,715 therapeutic interviews were carried out and 292 group meetings were held.

HEART TOLL

The report said that most of the deaths that occurred during 1959 were caused by heart diseases—some 343.8 per 100,000.

Cancer deaths were 148.8 per 100,000.

Death rate for suicides was 11 per 100,000, almost the same as 1957-58.

Accidents accounted for 66.2 per 100,000 with motor vehicle accidents responsible for 33 per cent of accidental deaths, falls 16 per cent, drownings 12 per cent, and fires 8 per cent.

VMD Rushing

First Trip On Ferry March 4

MLAs and their wives and civic officials will go cruising March 4 on the provincial government ferry Sidney, now being rushed to completion at Victoria Machinery Depot.

Highways Minister Gaglardi said yesterday the official party will board the vessel about 9 a.m. and be taken on a two-hour cruise.

Shipboard refreshments will be served.

During the cruise, Mr. Gaglardi, on behalf of Premier Bennett who is chairman of the Highways and Toll Bridge Authority, will officially accept the $3,000,000 ferry from Victoria Machinery Depot president Harold Husband.

Mr. Husband said yesterday contract called for completion of the ferry within one year after the contract was let. VMD will beat the time limit by five days.

Final sea trials are scheduled for March 2. The vessel will leave VMD Outer Wharf plant at 9 a.m. and is due to return at 4.30 p.m.

Car-Testing Station Urged for Victoria

Establishment of a vehicle testing station in Victoria to be used by the city and surrounding municipalities was suggested in the legislature last night by A. J. Matthew (SC, Vancouver Centre).

He said Vancouver's testing centre is the talk of the continent and, while mechanical failure is responsible for 10 per cent of B.C.'s traffic accidents, the figure for Vancouver is less than one per cent.

"There is ample justification for constructing a similar type of station in New Westminster and Victoria," he said. "As to the rest of the province, it could be served by mobile units."

Hospital Theft

Detectives Dig Up Jewel Loot

City detectives said early today they have recovered most of the jewelry taken from a safe in the billing office of St. Joseph's Hospital two weeks ago.

Thieves grabbed more than $7,000 in cash and cheques as well as jewelry in the raid.

Cache was found late last night beneath a pile of dirt at an excavation in front of a Saanich house which had been vacant for two or three weeks, police said.

Stones had been removed from all of the rings in the cache.

Jewelry was the property of hospital patients.

Short Course In Berries

Seven Vancouver Island and mainland strawberry experts will speak during a one-day "growers' short course," at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Farmers' Institute Hall at Saanichton.

Lecturers include Dr. Jack Harris, R. M. Adamson, Tom Windt, Ian Carne, W. R. Foster, Tom Cram and A. C. Carter.

Anyone Lost a Bike?

Victoria police hope to untangle this mass of unclaimed bicycles. Held in confined storage, under eye here of Const. Fred Acreman, wheels will be pulled out for public examination Friday from 1 to 9 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. People who have lost bicycles in last two years are asked to come and look these over for possible claim. After "preview," bikes will be put away in storage to await future sale.—(Colonist photo.)

Jaycee Fair Expands Rides, Rhythm, Room

Plan on spending more than one evening at the Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition. It will take you at least two nights to see it all.

That is the word from fair officials, who say the annual show, May 16 to 21, is going to be the biggest and best in the 14-year-old history of the event.

Everything about the show is going to be bigger — the stage show, the carnival and the exhibits.

Headlining the stage show will be the Kirby Stone Four, Columbia recording stars recently placed among the top six vocal quartets in North America in a national survey.

★ ★ ★

Exhibits Growing

★ ★ ★

For those who enjoy carnival attractions, 10 new giant rides in addition to the usual array will be in action, and a 72-foot entrance gate, complete with loudspeakers, music and lighting is being assembled.

Major emphasis of this year's fair will be placed on the exhibits. One-third more floor space is being devoted to exhibits, with 2,400 square feet for one huge display, "Mediscope 1960."

"Mediscope 1960" will include displays of educational value on the subject of medicine, and demonstrations of "truth is stranger than fiction" stunts.

There will also be a 30 per cent increase in the agricultural show area. All 4-H clubs have been invited to participate, and prizes, too, will be larger than ever.

Who Authorized Penny Drive? Asks Mooney

City parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney yesterday questioned the right of any organization to raise funds for a civic project without first having consulted city council.

Referring to a fund which raised some $60 in pennies toward $300 with which to pay Victoria sculptor Peggy Walton Packard for her bust of Queen Elizabeth, Ald. Mooney said, "I can't figure out who authorized them to raise the money.

"By what authority did they raise it?"

The fund was launched when Mrs. Packard failed to send the city a final bill for her work until some weeks after the bust had been delivered to the city. The city paid the bill a few days after receiving it.

When the city issued Mrs. Packard a cheque for $300, the terms of the fund also permitted the money to be donated to the city to help defray landscaping costs at the site where the bust is to be erected in Beacon Hill Park.

Asked yesterday if his committee would accept the money, Ald. Mooney said the problem would be placed in the council's lap.

"As far as I am concerned I think the city is quite capable to run its own business," he said.

He added that if the city needs public aid for a project, "it would ask for it."

Navy Officer Commended For Rescue

Lieut. R. F. Dunston yesterday received a naval board commendation for his "presence of mind, prompt action, and disregard for personal danger" in the rescue of the wife of brother officer Lt.-Cmdr. M. M. Locke when Mrs. Locke accidentally drove a car off a jetty in Esquimalt. Both officers serve on HMCS Margaree.

Wives of delegates to the Pipe Line Contractors' Association annual convention are enjoying themselves during their three-day stay here. Italian Pottery Good for Flowers

Red and white striped dishes from Italy caught my eye in one store recently. These would brighten any table.

Useful shapes include tall containers for drinking straws, or those long thin rusks, so popular these days, to nibble between courses.

* * *

Small fluted cups are to hold pretzels. A gay touch to any indoor or outdoor meal (summer will be here sometime) are the baskets in this gay pottery with grille covers to hold cigaret ashes.

* * *

Quaint whiskey decanters in the same ware are $2.50.

Unusual jugs, also from Italy, are black with delicate hand etchings on each. Each one is initialled. They would look pretty either as tableware or to hold flowers.

* * *

Very attractive holders for spring flowers are smaller jugs and dainty baskets in similar pottery.

Posy rings at 79 cents would look delightful filled with tiny primulas, or pansies.

For collectors of miniatures this store is selling tiny copper jugs for the ridiculously cheap price of 60 cents each.

On this continent we all seem to be slaves to our cups of coffee.

According to a professor of occupational health, our "coffee breaks" are very important.

A useful tip is given to office girls by Dr. Jean S. Felton of the University of California, who says "experiences are exchanged and tensions loosened (during coffee break). Plans are made for joint activities and romances are nourished."

In the circumstances Leap Year seems the wrong time for husband-hunting secretaries to stop that coffee drinking.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: My husband works in an office. He is supposed to get Thursday off. Very often his boss calls him about noon on Thursday and asks if he'd mind coming in "for a few hours" (without pay, I might add).

My husband says in a sweet voice, "I'd be glad to. No trouble at all. I wasn't doing anything anyway." All the while I can see that he's so burned up you could fry an egg on his head.

When he comes home he takes out his meanness on me and the kids. Last week he even kicked the cat. I've told him the next time the boss calls he should tell him right out that he has something planned and won't be able to come in. He says a man in business can't do such things.

I'm sick of having to put up with his ugly temper every time this happens. What can I do? — UPSET WIFE

Dear Upset: Many people take out their hostilities on innocent bystanders who can't retaliate. Wives and children are favorite scapegoats.

Your husband would like to kick the boss but he's afraid the boss might kick him back (or out) — so he kicks the cat instead.

Tell him you're through being his whipping girl. Suggest he vent his anger on a punching bag or a golf ball. A fast trot around the block is an effective way to let off steam. There'd be fewer abused wives around if they'd put their indignation up where their mouth is.

Look What They Did

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the woman who complained because the local press photographers made her the laughing stock of the town by catching her in unflattering poses with a stupid look on her face. You defended the photographers by saying they do their best and if the woman is so unhappy with the pictures to stay out of camera range.

I think this woman may have a valid complaint since witnessing what press and magazine photographers did to a friend of mine, Earl Long of Louisiana.

They slaughtered him by printing pictures which made him look mentally deranged. A camera can be a lethal weapon in the hands of a skilled photographer and you konw it. Mr. Long is as sane as you or I.—NEW ORLEANS READER.

★ ★ ★

Dear Reader: Speak for yourself and don't make any package statements for me, Bub.

I am not qualified to pass judgment on the mental condition of Mr. Long. The voters of Louisiana expressed themselves in the recent election.

Aunt Runs Everything

Dear Ann: I'm a boy 17 with the most terrible case of acne anybody ever saw. Several of the fellows in our school have light cases but mine is really a mess.

My aunt who runs everything told my mother that it's just the stage I'm in and I'll outgrow it. She also told Mom that over-doctoring skin eruptions usually make them worse. Well, I am so sick of myself that I'm ready to quit school and go into hiding.

You seem to be a friend to teen-agers and you give them the straight goods even if it hurts. I'll consider you a friend for life if you help me. —HORRIBLE SIGHT.

★ ★ ★

Dear Sight: Is your aunt a doctor? If not, tell her you'll get your medical opinions from someone who knows what he's talking about.

Acne usually responds to a change in diet, medication and lamp treatments. See a skin specialist at once.

What's Cooking!

Foreign Flavors Bring Versatility

By LOUISE MOORE

Cooking with a foreign flavor seems to be the rage these days—no doubt due to new Canadians in our midst. The more we learn from them the more versatile will be our menus.

Now a marvelous idea has been adopted by a group of young married couples living in a neighborhood where people of other nationalities also live.

Once a month one family will stage a party, serving nothing but foods from their homeland. The next time a Polish couple plans a dinner with all Polish foods and so it goes until each family had learned to cook in several languages.

So today we stage a Chinese get-together, for Chinese foods have become so very popular and most of the dishes can be cooked in your own home kitchen. Usual ingredients can be bought at the Chinese stores.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

Have the butcher cut 3 or 4 pounds spareribs crosswise into two or three pieces, then into single ribs. Combine in bowl: 3 tblesp. brown sugar, 2 tamlsp. honey, tblsp. soy sauce, I piece fresh ginger root 1 inch long and grated, using the juice and pulp.

Also add 1 tblsp. brandy and a small piece of garlic minced, and 1 tsp. salt; let the ribs stand in this marinade for 2 hours. Then remove ribs to pan and roast in oven with a little water to prevent buruing for 1 to 1¼ hours or until a deep redish brown.

Serve with plum sauce which you can buy at a Chinese food shop.

SPICY CHICKEN IN FOIL

Quarter 2 chickens—3 to 4 pound birds or use fryers if you wish. Sprinkle each piece lightly with flour seasoned with salt, pepper and paprika. Put 4 tblsp. peanut oil in large heavy frying pan and brown the pieces to a rich golden brown. You may have to brown a few pieces at a time.

When browned place each quarter meat side down, on double thickness of aluminum foil cut in squares, pulling up edges for holding the sauce. Combine 1 tblsp. brown sugar, ¼ cup soy sauce, ½ tsp. ginger, a dash of powdered cloves, ¼ cup fresh lemon or lime juice, 1 clove garlic minced (optional) and ½ cup rose wine.

Heat and cook 1 minute, then pour over the chicken. Fold foil over and across top of chicken, closing with a double fold and turning each end up and over and over to prevent juices from oozing out. Place in hot oven (400 F.) and roast about 1¼ hours or until tender. If fryers are used about 40 minutes should be sufficient to cook the pieces fork tender.

Serve with green rice which is simply fluffed rice with butter and finely chopped parsley added; green beans with toasted silvered almonds, orange fruit cup, almond cookies and China tea or fruit beverage.

PENNY AUCTION

Ladys' Guild of St. Barbara's Chapel, Work Point Barracks, will hold a penny auction Wednesday, March 2 at 8 p.m. in the Support Company lecture room at Macauley Point. Coffee will be served and Capt. Roger Riley will handle the auction.

League Makes $300

Members of the Solarium Junior League report that $300 was realized from sales of novelties and programs at the Ice Capades Show. Miss Margaret Nicholson convened the project.

Arrangements are being completed for the annual rummage sale to be held March 12 in the Orange Hall. Mrs. G. Carrier is convener.

It was decided the League would produce a Minstrel show in April under convenership of Mrs. Pearl Ward.

Russian Shoes Badly Made

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian shoes are so badly made that unsalable bootwear is piling up in stores at an alarming rate, Izvestia says. The government newspaper quotes Raisa Didenko, shoe specialist for the central department store, Moscow's second largest, as saying a million dollars worth of unsalable shoes have accumulated in her store and $44,000,000 worth in all Moscow stores.

Tips for Parents

Child Fortunate When Parents Respect Effort

By HELEN R. HEWSON

The four-year-old had spent a happy afternoon at play in the living room. He was recovering from a cold. Today his play had been quiet, free of interruption, with baby safe in her playpen and his older brother out skating.

Mother bustled in. "Come, now, it's time to tidy up. Daddy will be home soon. We can't leave all this stuff lying around."

"Can I keep my house to show him? My house and my garage, too? asks the child.

"Of course, but these other things will have to go back to your room. Put them in the basket."

★ ★ ★

She reached over to scoop up a little heap of odds and ends from beside the house on the coffee table. "Oh, no, don't take those, please Mummy, leave them there.

"But why, what are you going to do with them? They aren't part of your house, are they?" says mother.

"No. Those are my ornaments. I'm not sure yet what I'm going to do with them, but I want them there."

Mother wisely left them on the tables.

His ornaments—things that adorn and embellish, a word he had picked up, probably did not fully understand, but it explained his feeling for these bits and pieces.

★ ★ ★

The young child leads a busy life, observing, learning and creating. He takes bits of information, of materials, ideas, his own feelings, and out of these he builds his own picture of life.

It is a picture that is constantly changing as learning progresses.

As the young child builds a house that isn't quite like a house, draws a picture that has little meaning for adult eyes, he is doing more than put in time.

He is sorting and organizing his impressions into a meaningful whole.

WEAPONS JAM

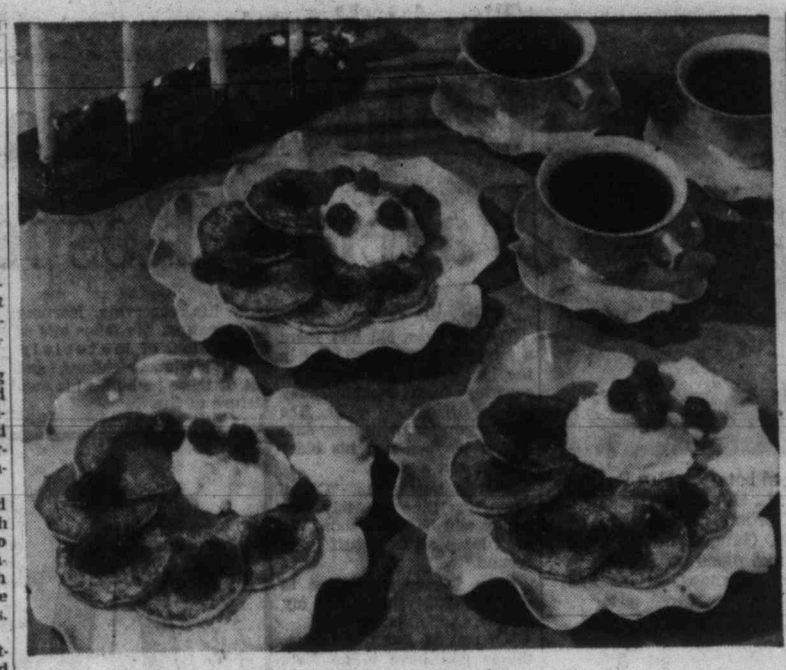

Tremendous traffic congestion in the 700 Block on Johnson Street, for the last few nights, has been caused by the number of people looking at the Ancient Chinese Ceremonial Weapons, on view in Maynard's window and to be sold at this week's Antique Auctions.

We called in to see the reason for the crowds and were met with a feast of beautifully selected and chosen Antique Furnishings, amongst which were some 300-year-old Scottish Shawls and Pewter, Sheraton Chests, Writing Tables, China Cabinets, Love Seats, exotic grained Loo Tables, Antique Weapons, an Antique Tea Service — one of two chosen by Queen Victoria, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Figure and Cameo-styled Backed Chairs, Persian and Chinese Carpets, Gold-threaded Persian Prayer Rug, 400 years old, and used as a Lecture piece at McGill University for the past 25 years, etc., etc. In all, we strongly advise any member of the Victorian Public who has an eye for art and beauty to visit Maynard's before and during their sales this week.

Cherry dollars a la mode.

Pancake Mix Cuts Preparation Time

Try this unusual pancake dessert suggestion that's very good in the flavour department — and so easy to make: Cherry Dollars a La Mode. Your favorite pancake mix cuts preparation time to almost nothing. Try "shaking up" the pancake batter in a quart jar or shaker and pour about one tablespoon on the griddle for each tiny pancake.

As these extra light pancakes come from the griddle, arrange them in a circle on the plates, and top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Finish with a flourish of red cherry sauce.

Cherry Dollars a la mode—pretty to look at and,—oh—so good to eat!

CHERRY DOLLARS A LA MODE

(Makes 4 Servings)

TOPPING: One 20-oz. can cherries, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons corn starch, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon.

PANCAKES: One cup milk, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon liquid or melted shortening, 1 cup buttermilk pancake mix.

Vanilla Ice Cream.

For the topping, drain juice from cherries into a small saucepan. Blend sugar, corn starch and cinnamon; add to the cherry juice. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly; add cherries and cool.

For the pancakes, place milk, egg and liquid shortening in shaker or glass jar. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Add buttermilk pancake mix and shake vigorously 10 to 15 times or until batter is fairly smooth. Pour onto hot, lightly greased griddle using 1 tablespoon of batter for each pancake. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

To serve, overlap 5 tiny pancakes; top with ice cream and cherry topping.

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Alfred R. Patrick, 82, and Esther Redding, 91, were married last week after a 10-year romance. Both used canes to walk down the aisle at Centenary United Church. Following their honeymoon they will live in a two-room downtown apartment. A childless widow and widower who lost first spouses in 1945, they met at the senior's club and spent most of their courtship playing Chinese checkers.

AWHILE BACK . . . shortly after we were absolutely SURE . . . we released the news . . . that we were expecting . . . twins. We are now happy to report that delivery took place on time . . . was highly successful . . . and attended by the City's leading specialists in births of this kind.

We named them "Pat" 'n' "Mike," cause they looked alike. The doctors were all amazed they didn't have any buttons . . . (not even ONE). They were Hollywood Beds, and came with 6 legs each, for extra strength. We nursed 'em along for awhile . . . kept them in an incubator warehouse until we were SURE they were O.K. & wouldn't wrinkle . . . what with no buttons . . . smooth all over . . . we didn't want 'em to go home until we K-N-E-W . . . they would be SO welcome.

Millinery Show Great Success

Bridge Raises $231

Over $231 was raised at the St. Joseph's Hospital bridge-tea recently.

A fashion show of hats, arranged by Toojays and organized by the auxiliary to the hospital was a great success.

Commentator was Mrs. J. W. Golby and co-ordinator Mrs. E. Michaux. She was assisted by Mrs. Alan Eager and Mrs. J. P. Carrier, make-up. Models were Mrs. J. T. Cruise, Mrs. B. E. Knapp, Mrs. H. M. Edmison, Mrs. J. J. O'Reilly and Mrs. G. Walther.

During afternoon, bridge was played in hall under convenership of Mrs. H. Jackh, assisted by Mrs. R. Atkinson, Mrs. C. Nash, Mrs. H. C. Carruthers, Mrs. F. G. Stuart and Mrs. A. Desmarais.

Tea was served in the main lounge. The head table was centred with a bouquet of iris, pink tulips and daffodils, flanked by tiny egg dolls, made by the tea convener, Mrs. M. Adkisson, and pink and yellow candles.

Presiding were Mrs. J. Di Castri, Mrs. Garfield Dixon, Mrs. Peter Semenchuk and Mrs. Andrew Reid. Receiving the guests was Mrs. T. Atkinson. Serviteurs were Mrs. A. Barker, Mrs. J. W. Cantelon, Mrs. A. Chadderton and Mrs. G. Grant.

In the bridge hall, Mrs. J. McKenna, Mrs. G. Norrie, Mrs. J. Ryan, Mrs. P. Sallaway, Mrs. E. Thomson, Mrs. J. Mitchell, Mrs. J. Fiddess, Mrs. F. Sedgewick and Mrs. L. Bapty served tea.

In charge were Mrs. E. T. Johnson, Mrs. A. W. Boden, Mrs. W. Cowan, Mrs. W. McNamara, Mrs. W. H. Hayward, Mrs. W. Rothery and Mrs. L. Sim. Mrs. R. Neville Grant; tickets, Mrs. R. Reading and Mrs. Blair Reid; memberships, Mrs. H. O'Neill and Mrs. J. A. McLellan.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, Feb. 25th—You and I know that no dinner is truly well-balanced without vegetables. Yet sometimes it's hard to think of fresh, new ways to serve them. That's when I let MAGGI CHICKEN BOUILLON CUBES come to the rescue! I simply add 2 or more Maggi Cubes to the vegetable water. The cubes dissolve, adding their rich Maggi flavour to the vegetables as they cook. Results are delicious! Yes, Maggi Cubes add exciting gourmet flavour to many, many foods — sauces, gravies and casserole dishes. For a brand new flavour approach to your cooking . . . ask for Maggi Chicken Bouillon Cubes in the yellow and red package.

NEXT TIME YOU FEEL THE URGE TO BAKE . . . a big batch of cookies, a pie or a cake . . . try BLUE BONNET MARGARINE in your baking. You'll be delighted with the difference it makes! That's because it's made from the finest ingredients . . . pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk, with Vitamins A and D added. Everything is doubly delicious and nutritious when you cook with Blue Bonnet! Use it as a topping for all your vegetables . . . let it melt over hot peas, spinach, cabbage, potatoes. Use it as a table spread and in sandwiches. Discover for yourself why I say again and again—'everything tastes better with Blue Bonnet on it'!

HOW OFTEN are your hands 'On Inspection'? Many more times a day than you might think . . . so take my tip and don't let "work hands" spoil your good-grooming. Keep them always soft and lovely with HINDS HONEY & ALMOND CREAM. Hinds Cream is the traditional hand-care of beautiful women . . . a beauty secret handed down from mother to daughter. Yes, women who are proud of their hands prefer Hinds Cream, with hexachlorophene and lanolin. Simply smooth on fragrant Hinds Cream after every watery or hand roughening chore. I know you'll be delighted with the lasting protection you get from Hinds Honey & Almond Cream.

WHEN I'M PLANNING A PARTY there's one treat-to-eat that goes at the top of my list . . . McCormick's SNACKERS. They're the new idea in crackers —crackers made specially for both snacks and parties. I always try to have a supply on hand because I've discovered (as you will!) that any time is Snacker-time. The fresh, golden crispness of McCormick's Snackers makes them everyone's favourite snack—with soups or jam or cheese. And the four dainty Snacker shapes—rounds, triangles, squares and fingers, all in one package, are perfect for party spreads. So at the top of your shopping list, for parties or family, don't write crackers . . . write Snackers!

JUST LIKE CANDY . . . Your youngsters will love new Wampole VITA-POPS . . . and, I can assure you, you will too, mother. You see, though wild-cherry flavoured Vita-Pops are fun for your children to eat, they're also very practical from your point of view. Just one Vita-Pop a day will give your child his vitamin requirements! That's because each Vita-Pop contains precious vitamins A, C, D and B 12, the vitamins so essential for sound growth and good health. I suggest that you get a 5 weeks' supply of Vita-Pops at $2.50—or, better still, a 15 weeks' supply at only $5.95.

A ROARING BLIZZARD always makes me think longingly of warm summer sands and sunshine. I haven't decided yet where I'll head to for fun 'n' frolic this summer, but I've done one very important thing . . . I've opened a special Savings Account at the BANK OF MONTREAL—My "Sunshine Account" I call it. It's the one way to be sure you'll have the necessary cash when winter's snows are gone and the beach is beckoning. Why not join me in proving that winter dreams can become summer realities by making regular deposits in your Sunshine Account at "MY BANK".

A PENNY FOR YOUR PUP'S THOUGHTS as he wags his tail over his dinner. Well, the tail-wag tells all and it's not hard to guess that he's delighted when his dinner is DR. BALLARD'S CHAMPION DOG FOOD. All dogs love all three flavours of Dr. Ballard's — Regular, Liver or Chicken. This famed dog food contains all the necessary food values, including ample quantities of protein—so good for your dog's health, happiness and good looks. In fact, it has been proved in actual analysis that Dr. Ballard's gives your dog up to 94% more nourishment than many of the so-called "bargain" brands selling at only a few cents less. So—for your pup's sake—do get Dr. Ballard's the next time you shop!

YOUR FAMILY WILL BE IMPRESSED by your cooking genius when you keep NESTLE'S PURE THICK CREAM always handy for making special, scrumptious treats. Unopened, Nestle's Pure Thick Cream keeps its fresh quality indefinitely, right on your cupboard shelf. And after the tin is opened, this fine country cream stays fresh in the refrigerator as long as dairy cream. Nestle's Cream is luscious as a dessert topping—delicious in cream sauces and casserole dishes. You'll find any recipe calling for the smooth richness and flavour of cream turns out extra good when you use all-purpose Nestle's Pure Thick Cream!

I GET A THRILL DRIVING DOWN-TOWN just before school, watching our healthy Canadian youngsters thronging the streets. It's satisfying to know that lots of them, along with the rest of the family, have enjoyed a piping hot bowl of RED RIVER CEREAL for breakfast. Red River is as delicious as it's nourishing—with a nutty, wholesome blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax. Youngsters and active workers benefit from the extra energy values in Red River, while older members of the family find it guards regularity. Easy to prepare—cooks in a few minutes. Costs so little, too. Red River is best for all ages!

"MY LITTLE GIRL PIERETTE, who is eleven years old, suffered from chronic bronchitis for two years. She coughed night and day and it was impossible for her to sleep properly," writes a Quebec mother. In her grateful letter she then tells how a friend suggested that she try RAZ-MAH Capsules—and how they relieved her child. Her testimony is just one of many grateful letters from men and women to whom RAZ-MAH Capsules have brought complete relief from bronchial and asthmatic troubles. If you are plagued with the misery of wheezing and gasping for breath through bronchial asthma, do start using RAZ-MAH Capsules. For young children: RAZ-MAH Juniors.

Father Never Drank Water

By ELIZABETH BINKS

TORONTO — "In Italy, I think, the people know what is meant by gracious living.

"Perhaps this is because there is less rush and pressure there . . . perhaps because it is an older country and more bound by tradition than is Canada.

"But the people take more time and pride in their homes, especially their meals."

The silver-haired woman sat gracefully straight in her chair, hands folded, as she talked.

"The lady of the house always cooks, no matter how many servants she may employ," said Mrs. Joseph Grittani, my spokesman for Toronto's Italian community, a resident of Canada since 1904.

HOUSEWIVES FIRST

"Very few women in Italy work—they are primarily housewives. Every meal must be well prepared, even if it is not expensive," she told me.

"The women shop for fresh food every day — they almost never buy instant or canned goods.

"It was funny," she said with a smile, "when I was back in Bari, my husband's native city, last summer, I shopped in a new supermarket there. I noticed the store was full of canned goods—but no one was buying them!

"Of course," she added, "in Italy they are more suspicious of new food products than we are here.

WELL STOCKED

"Italians in Canada make great use of canned goods." She pointed to a larder well stocked with cream soups, clam chowder, canned fruit, vegetables, lemonade.

"North American canned goods, though," she stressed. "You won't find Italians even of my vintage buying canned ravioli or spaghetti or frozen pizza. They may be very good — but they're not the real thing!"

Since she has lived here all but three years of her life, Mrs. Gritanni is a good example of how the Italian people retain their strong national feeling.

She grew up in a tiny grocery store, sort of a community centre for the Italian neighbors who came there for groceries and good times.

At an early age she became by-lingual by reading both English and Italian newspapers.

It was then she assumed the role she still has today: that of interpreting Canada to Italians, Italy to Canadians.

HIS OWN WINE

"My father was a firm believer in the old Italian custom of wine drinking," she recalls. "I never saw him drink water —he made his own wine and stored it in barrels so there would always be plenty for everyone.

"I have heard of several Italians who were arrested in Toronto for brewing their own wine. They don't do it to get drunk; it's part of their daily diet. You rarely see an Italian drunk."

Starting with pizza, Mrs. Grittani outlines some secrets of the Italian cooking trade.

"Canadians often made the mistake of putting too many flavorings in Italian dishes," she said. "You shouldn't mix flavorings.

EASY PIZZA

"I make it the easy way. I buy a loaf of uncooked dough from a bakery. I stretch it very thin on a cookie sheet greased with olive oil.

"Then I just add whatever flavor I want —canned tomatoes, cheese, anchovies, mushrooms, pepperoni — and, of course, salt and pepper and a shred of garlic.

"I bake it in a medium high oven until the pastry is golden brown around the edges. Nothing could be easier."

Italians seldom fry foods or made creamed dishes. "There's nothing left over to cream," Mrs. Grittani said. "The food is always fresh!"

A favorite vegetable among Italians is the artichoke—and with Mrs. Grittani's recipe I can guarantee it tastes like candy.

Parboil the artichoke and fry it in olive oil; tear off the leaves and pare down the fuzz. Coat the meat with a batter of eggs, flour, salt and pepper. It's wonderful!

A COMBINATION

Some of Mrs. Grittani's meals are a combination of Canadian and Italian customs. Veal chops bought at an Italian butcher should, by Italian standards, be baked in water for two hours. She fries them —and serves mashed potatoes, artichokes and Italian salad.

Breakfast in the Grittani household is a roll and coffee; lunch is the big meal of the day followed by supper about 8.30.

"We usually drink wine with our food," she says. "And never coffee with meals.

"I always serve it after wards in the living room."

"AMAZING!"

New SUPER STARLAC tastes exactly like "morning-fresh" skim milk

Compare. One taste and you'll be convinced Borden's new Super Starlac is the greatest milk discovery since pasteurization.

Honestly, you'll be amazed at how really delicious Borden's new Super Starlac has become. Tiny milk-puffs burst into morning-fresh skim milk instantly . . . never leave a messy sediment.

Your family will love Super Starlac. It contains all the proteins, B-vitamins and calcium of fresh whole milk—only the water and fat are removed. Use it in all your recipes that call for milk.

Buy Super Starlac in the 4 quart, 12 quart and 40 quart easy carry cartons.

Bridge Tolls

Fraud Case Ahead

OTTAWA (UPI)—The government has uncovered sufficient evidence to lay criminal charges in connection with toll collection operations on Montreal's Jacques Cartier bridge, Transport Minister George Hees announced yesterday.

In a brief statement to the Commons, Hees said justice department lawyers were now assessing material gained in a series of RCMP raids to determine the nature and extent of the charges to be laid. He promised quick action.

The evidence on which charges will be based was gathered in raids in more than 30 Montreal and district homes of bridge employees and former employees. The RCMP seized bank records and other documents in the raids.

Hees told a Commons committee Feb. 9 that he personally had asked for the present investigation because he shared public concern over the "very real discrepancies" between tolls collected under the bridge's former manual system and under the new automatic scheme installed last fall.

In the first two months of the new system, revenues jumped by more than $150,000.

Fair Grant Doubled

The North and South Saanich Agricultural Society will receive an additional grant this year from Central Saanich.

The extra grant of $100 will help compensate for the financial loss at the fall fair last year caused by bad weather.

Central Saanich donates $100 to the society annually.

FARMER'S AID

Sales of milking machines reached 6,036 units in 1958, compared with 4,554 in the previous year.

VISCOUNT MONTGOMERY

Mao Happy To Meet Montgomery

LONDON (UPI) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery last night announced he will accept an invitation to call on Red Chinese party chief Mao Tse-tung when Montgomery visits Communist China in May. He said the Chinese embassy here told him "Mao would welcome me and be very pleased to see me."

"Beat your cold with a hot nightcap"

Best way to get rid of a cold is to take it to bed with hot lemonade. Squeeze the juice of 2 fresh Sunkist Lemons into a glass of hot water and drink it last thing at night. 8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends and neighbors in Victoria and other cities, in our bereavement and loss of our beloved mother, Barbara Fletcher. We thank the Rev. Dr. Soarling and the members of the Belmont United Church. — Miss W. Fletcher, Mrs. Muriel Eldred, Mrs. Dorothy Currie and J. Fletcher.

9 IN MEMORIAM

TOLMIE—In ever loving memory of our darling mother (Nana), Mrs. Wm. Fraser Tolmie, also our darling sister (Mable) McIlmoyle.
Today our hearts are heavy, our thoughts are all of thee.
Oh, how we miss you, none but God in Heaven can see.
Some say time heals an aching heart,
But no, it is not true;
For two long years have passed
And our hearts still ache for you.
—Sadly missed by Mrs. W. J. (Blanche) Lochead, and Mrs. S. A. (Millie) Pepper.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

It is only too true that the worst bidders are often among the best dummy players. This is not nearly so contradictory as it sounds. After all, they get into so many poor contracts that they require unusual skill in order to survive. Even so, the special would be almost extinct if the defenders weren't sometimes a bit too generous.

★ ★ ★

There is nothing to be said against the first round of bidding. Neither is there anything to be said in favor of what followed. North should have bid three no-trump over three spades, while South surely had no right to keep rebidding the same values. So he found himself in a tight spot as is usual with incurable optimists.

After winning the heart ace, declarer realized that, if the spade king was off-side, a club lead would cook his goose. To give the defence an increased chance to err, he played two more rounds of hearts; sluffing the diamond queen!

South then finessed the spade ten, losing to West's king. Not wanting to break clubs, West returned a spade. South heaved a sigh of relief, drew trumps, and discarded his club losers on dummy's diamonds.

West's error was not in failing to lead a club. He should simply have ducked the first spade. He would thus enable his partner to make a signal discard on the second spade, and East would naturally sluff a high club. Give credit to South for his deceptive sluff, which lulled West into false security about the diamond suit. But, about the auction, the less said, the better.

Collector's Items

Railroad wheels on a siding at Durango, Colo., are collectors' items—if a collector could lift one. They are spares in the yards of Denver and Rio Grande, only narrow-gauge railroad operating in U.S.

Haunted House?

If You Have Choice —Poltergeists Best

NEW YORK (AP)—If your house has to be haunted, and you have any choice of ghosts, by all means pick a poltergeist.

This prankish ghost is the extrovert of the spirit world. It may toss your furniture around, keep your nerves on edge waiting for the next cup to float through the air, or drop lighted matches from your ceiling.

But it won't stay long—a couple of months at most—and it won't hurt you, except perhaps for a playful pinch.

HOUSEWORK

If your noisy boarder follows the pattern of recent mysterious happenings in the news, it might mean a lot of extra housework to pick up the pieces.

In Baltimore a family, including a teen-age grandson, reported flying sugar bowls, falling glassware and exploding bottles. And an elderly couple, with a visiting 16-year-old grandson, said objects flew across rooms, a davenport and refrigerator overturned and tumblers jumped off shelves at their farm home near Guttenberg, Iowa.

ENTERTAINING

Maybe, though, the fun of all the entertaining will make up for the extra work. There's no doubt you'll have company. Day and night they come trooping to your door:

Firemen, police (the FBI declined in the Baltimore case), utility men, plumbers, builders, men with all kinds of detecting apparatus, reporters, photographers, spiritualistic mediums, college professors studying psychic phenomena, strangers with remedies remembered from the old country, people who offer to exorcise the spirit for a small fee, both real and would-be authorities on poltergeists and the just plain curious.

"WORN OUT"

"You really get worn out, with people constantly coming and going, and with all the phone calls," recalls Mrs. James M. Herrmann of Seaford, on Long Island.

In February, two years ago, the Herrmann family which included Jimmy 12, and Lucille, 14, was bedevilled by popping bottles and flying objects in one of the most publicized poltergeist cases in recent years.

EXPLODED

Mrs. Herrmann says now: "I don't think there is any definite solution. It was just one of those things, with no rhyme or reason to it. But there was a definite physical force behind it.

"You should have seen the dent in the secretary where the figurine flew through the air and hit it. And the figurine exploded into a million splinters. Nobody was in the room when it happened.

"SHOW ME"

"But I don't believe it was a poltergeist. I still say: "If it's a poltergeist, you'll have to show it to me."

Dr. Nandor Fodor, a New York phychoanalyst has for nearly 40 years been interested in psychical research. He has followed the trial of the poltergeist from Hungary to England and the United States.

SPLIT IN AIR

Although he has never seen the beginning of a poltergeist action—such as a saucer pick itself up off a shelf and start its flight—he says he has seen big saucers, too thick to be broken by a man's hands, split in the air as if struck a heavy hammer blow.

Explanations of poltergeist phenomena vary.

A British psychic researcher of the last century, Frank Podmore, said poltergeists were only naughty little boys or girls who wished to startle their elders.

PLAYFUL

The spiritualistic theory says a ghost or spirit is at work in the house. Poltergegist, in German, means playful ghost. As Fodor explains this viewpoint:

"The belief is that, in order to make contact with objects, such as dishes of knick-knacks, and project its 'spirit' energies, the entity must work through a living person—a medium.

"Since many of these cases although not all have centred about young boys and girls, it has been suggested that adolescents are in a particularly vulnerable or 'sensitive' state.

SEXUAL ENERGIES

"As poltergeist phenomena are usually associated with a boy or girl at the pubertal age," Fodor goes on, "it is widely assumed that a side-tracking of the sexual energies in a maturing body may be responsible for the explosive manifestation. The why and how of this psychobiological disorder is as yet unknown."

Fodor hopes we'll get it all figured out some day.

Science Solves Cookie Mystery

LONDON (AP) — Peter Baguley, a pilot for British European Airways, got tired of having chocolate marshmallow cookies explode in his face at 5,000 feet.

A catering firm discovered the blowouts were caused by air trapped under the cookies' chocolate covering at a higher pressure than air at flying altitudes.

Tuesday BEA proudly announced: "A marshmallow biscuit has been devised with a porous base, which enables interior and exterior pressures to equalize and so prevents chocolate fatigue on the outer skin."

Finch Meant to Kill Maid As Witness—Prosecutor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Prosecutor Clifford Crail charged yesterday that Dr. Bernard Finch dashed back into his garage after killing his wife with the intention of murdering their Swedish maid.

Crail, delivering the first of the closing arguments in the murder trial of the 42-year-old surgeon and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, 23, pointed out that Marie Anne Lidholm was the only eyewitness besides Carole to the struggle in the Finch garage.

MAID FLED

The maid had fled into the Finch home after the surgeon struck her earlier, and she was not in the garage when he returned.

"Dr. Finch said he went back to the garage after the shooting," Crail said, "and I believe he had a very good reason. He wanted to see if Marie Anne was still there.

"And believe me, ladies and gentlemen, if she had been she wouldn't have testified from this witness stand. She has Mrs. Finch to thank for that. If Mrs. Finch hadn't run out of the garage toward her father-in-law's house, what do you think would have happened?"

FITTED STORY

Crail charged angrily that Finch arranged his testimony to fit Miss Lidholm's.

"He had to think up some reason to justify following his wife out of the garage," Crail said.

The prosecutor recounted Finch's story that his wife grabbed a gun from the front seat of the car and ran into the night.

"Now here is his excuse," Crail said.

"All of a sudden he remembered his co-defendant was outside . . . so he goes outside even though his wife had a loaded gun, to protect his co-defendant.

"Well, it's a good thing, under those circumstances, that he was thinking of her, because a little later the co-defendant has testified that under similar circumstances, she wasn't thinking of him."

Concert Honors Divided

By BERT BINNY

The Victoria Musical Art Society provided another really fine concert at Holyrood House last night.

On the platform the honors were divided between two talented groups. The first was the vocal duo of June Gruber and Margaret Abbott, who were accompanied by Richard Proudman.

VOCAL CLARITY

Displaying delightful vocal clarity, effective power and unfailing control, the duo provided a nicely balanced program.

The balance of the program was supplied by the Victoria University String Quartet, which has been in existence since 1954. Last night it was made up by Mary Goward and Wendy Gerry, violinists, Betty Tracy, cellist, and Dr. Gordon Tracy, viola.

ANNUAL RECITAL

Next major presentation of the Musical Art Society is the annual talented students' recital, set for March 23 at Holyrood House.

Scholarship tea will be held March 12 at Oak Bay Beach Hotel with a program featuring soprano Anne Harris. This affair provides funds for the scholarships given by the society at the music festival.

Russian Threat 'More Serious' Than Public Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A national security consultant testified yesterday that Russia's threat to free-world survival is imminent, growing and "more serious than the president has expressed to the American public."

The grim appraisal was given by Robert C. Sprague, co-chairman of a 1957 inquiry.

He said the economy would not suffer if the nation plunged deeper into debt to meet what he called Russia's "clear and imminent threat" to U.S. survival. Sprague said the U.S. has not "fully awakened" to the threat.

Allan Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, went before a closed meeting of the Senate space and preparedness committees to explain why the joint chiefs of staff did not see certain intelligence figures on Russian strength.

Sprague, who styled himself a "conservative Republican," commented that he cannot "look into the president's mind" to discover how Eisenhower appraises the Soviet threat.

MARLON BRANDO and ANNA MAGNANI

★ ★ ★

That's Show Business

By Dick Williams

Anna Magnani's sense of humor is better than you might expect from such a volatile, serious actress. Some months ago in Rome she received a cable from the producers of "The Fugitive Kind," her new film based on Tennessee Williams' play, "Orpheus Descending," that Marlon Brando had been landed as her leading man.

Magnani cabled back: "A miracle . . . you have worked a miracle." A little later passing through Paris bound for New York, she paused to tell newsmen that "Brando is the greatest actor in the world."

But when she began rehearsals with Brando and the other members of the cast, her enthusiasm seemed to taper off. She objected to certain Brando lines in the script. She argued over who was to get the most close-ups. Into production she fought like a tigress whenever the focus of the story wasn't on her.

Finally producers Martin Jurow and Richard Shephard took her to one side. "We thought you liked the idea of acting with Brando," they said.

"I do," she replied with a slight, glacial smile. "But this is business!"

Garden Notes

Fungus Rots Stems

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In starting seeds indoors, the average home gardener will fuss and worry over his seeded pots and boxes of soil—rather like a mother hen with her flock—until the little seedlings put in their appearance, whereupon he heaves a sigh of relief, settles his plantlets comfortably in a sunny kitchen window, and goes about his business. He isn't home-free yet, though, not by a long shot.

Some fine morning, when he comes to water his pets, he may find things have gone very wrong indeed. Many of the seedlings may have toppled over and are lying on the soil surface. Others are looking very sorry for themselves, and on closer examination he finds their stems are eaten almost completely through at soil level, and are not thicker than a hair at that point.

★ ★ ★

This is the dread "damping-off" disease, probably the most common cause of death among seedling plants. It is not just one disease, but a whole family of them, and I imagine there are as many varieties of damping-off as there are flu viruses in humans. All of them act in the same way, though, rotting through the stems of seedlings at soil level.

The source of the trouble is a fungus organism in the soil, and by "fungus" I don't mean anything that looks like a mushroom or a toadstool, but invisible spores more like those that cause damp clothes to mildew.

These organisms are very common, and it is almost impossible to find a sample of garden soil completely free from these infectious spores.

Damping-off of seedlings is combatted in two ways: first, by creating conditions unfavorable to the development of the fungus, and second, by attempting to kill off all the fungus spores in the soil before sowing our seeds. This sterilizing may be done either by heat or with chemicals.

The damping-off organisms can thrive only on the surface of cold, wet soil, so our first line of defence is to use soil of such a texture that water passes freely through it. This is why we add coarse sand to our seed-sowing mixtures. A surface layer of pure sand helps, too, by keeping dry the critical portion of the seedling stems where they emerge from the soil.

If you could water your seedling plants in such a manner as to avoid ever wetting the stems, I doubt if you would have any damping-off troubles. This isn't easy, for even watering by immersion may leave the surface sodden, and unless it can be dried off quickly, the infection may get its chance.

★ ★ ★

One worthwhile stunt is to sow your seeds in a layer of pure vermiculite, perlite or sifted peat moss spread over the soil. These materials are all sterile and free from damping-off spores. It is quite possible to start seeds and grow them in one of these sterile mediums, but as they contain no plant food, it is necessary either to feed your seedlings with liquid nutrients or to have a layer of soil beneath, within reach of the roots.

Still another idea, and one I always use, is to do all your watering with a weak permanganate solution. Permanganate of potash, a mild disinfectant and fungicide, is available at any drug store, and 25c worth is enough to keep you going for several years.

I put a very tiny pinch of the little brown crystals in the water whenever I give my seedlings a drink—just enough to turn the water pink.

Duke of Clarence

Was He Drowned?

Oxford Honors Legend

LONDON (AP)—The 482nd anniversary of the lamented death of the Duke of Clarence passed unnoticed in most of England yesterday but not at Oxford.

Shakespeare says Clarence came to a wet end in the Tower of London. He was dumped head first into a butt of Malmsey—and kept there. A butt of Malmsey is a 92-gallon cask of sweet wine.

The popular story goes that Richard, Clarence's brother had the duke put away so he could clear his infamous path to the throne and become Richard III.

Historians take a more prosaic view. They say King Richard clapped Clarence into prison for plotting rebellion and he was executed. They don't know whether he was drowned in wine or was beheaded.

Wednesday, while the rest of England ignored the anniversary of the dread deed in the tower, the task of keeping Clarence's memory green was taken up by Timothy Hornsby and John Underwood of Christ College, Oxford.

They held a memorial service in Oxford after sending out invitations which read:

"Black tie. Mourning optional."

A Malmsey butt was sent from London for the occasion. It was empty because 92 gallons of wine would have cost £1,400 ($3,738).

An oration was read in praise of the late duke. Then students raised glasses and Clarence was toasted — in wine.

He Paid $37,000— To Learn Dancing

CALGARY (CP) — The Supreme Court of Alberta yesterday ordered the financial affairs of a 45-year-old bachelor, who paid more than $37,000 of a $65,000 inheritance for dancing lessons, to be turned over to the control of a public trustee.

Mr. Justice Harold Riley said Howard Lyons was "incapable of administering his own affairs because he's been mesmerized" by the dance studio.

An application to have Mr. Lyons' financial affairs turned over to a trustee was made by Harold Cush, lawyer for Mr. Lyons.

In an affidavit filed with the court, Mr. Cush said he received from Mr. Lyons' banks cancelled cheques made out to the Arthur Murray Dance Studios and its manager Robert Fields for a total of $37,450. Mr. Lyons told him the money was for dancing lessons between June 22 and Nov. 6 of last year.

Mr. Justice Riley said "There's something abnormal about spending $37,500 on dancing lessons in a space of somewhat less than a year."

Mr. Lyons, sole beneficiary of his father's estate, told the court that of his $65,000 inheritance about $15,000 in bonds and some cash remained. He said he enjoyed dancing and wanted to carry on.

Living Commonwealth

Janitor, Lecturer Get Same Wage In Labor 'Heaven'

By DEREK GOUND

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — Help wanted: University lecturer; salary £1,100 per year. Help wanted: lavatory janitor; £950 per year plus overtime.

These two advertisements appearing side by side in a Wellington newspaper illustrate more clearly than pages of statistics the economic mood of this British Commonwealth country as it enters the decade of the 1960s on a wave of prosperity and expansion.

In a population of 2,296,434, the latest count listed exactly 941 people unemployed. In the scramble for manpower, wage structures have been disturbed to the point where the janitor finds himself virtually in the same income class as the university lecturer.

The Labor Party's 77-year-old Prime Minister Walter Nash opened the decade with a New Year's message headed: "Brighter outlook."

Planned for 1960 are:

A £20,000,000 refinery backed by six major concerns aimed to meet 90 per cent of the nation's petroleum needs;

A £10,000,000 expansion of a pulp mill to include installation of a second newsprint machine, boosting output to 180,000 tons annually.

A £2,250,000 aluminum fabricating mill backed by a British firm and an initial study, under a 99-year agreement just signed, into the possibilities of establishing a £150,000,000 aluminum smelter, also British-backed.

There are also plans to build factories to produce paint, gin, instant coffee, glass fibre, and steel products. Plans are under way for investigation of an iron and steel industry.

Prices at recent wool sales have been 20 to 40 per cent higher than 1958 and prospects for dairy sales look good.

★ ★ ★

The outlook for meat exports is not so bright. The outlook for lamb and mutton on the British market is uncertain, due to increased home production and a big increase in poultry production.

Despite Prime Minister Nash's prediction of a brighter outlook for 1960, his Labor government will have to fight hard in November to hold its ground and political pundits are predicting a victory for the opposition Nationalists.

★ ★ ★

But whatever the outcome of the election, most New Zealanders seem to have entered the 1960s with the feeling that "things look pretty good."

Canada's Population 22,500,000 by 1970

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canada's population will "explode" beyond 18,000,000 this year and reach 22,500,000 by the end of the decade, the Bank of Montreal predicted yesterday.

By 1970, the bank estimated in its monthly review, Canada's annual birth rate likely will rise to 600,000.

A Real Birthday at Last!

A real, honest-to-goodness birthday party will be celebrated at last on Monday by David Spittal, 579 Baker, and his pretty little neighbor, Sharon Lynn Ottenbreit, 575 Baxter, who were both born Feb. 29, 1956, the extra day that turns up only every four years. When it isn't leap year Sharon adopts Feb. 28 as her "birthday." David selects March 1. — (Colonist photo.)

Vertol 107 Helicopter
. . . to replace logging roads?

Alert Bay Probable Test Area

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A fleet of giant helicopters may be in use before the end of this year to log the mountain-top forests of Vancouver Island.

The Daily Colonist has learned that a major company is actively planning to experiment with logging, by turboprop helicopter, hitherto inaccessible timber on B.C.'s mountainsides.

B.C. TO HELP

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said his department has agreed to take part in the experiments.

Some 100,000 feet of high elevation timber in scattered experimental patches in B.C. will probably be made available to the company at specially reduced stumpage rates.

PROBABLE SITE

One of the experimental areas is expected to be on the mountainsides near Alert Bay on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Williston gave a brief hint of the operation in the legislature yesterday when he said airlifts in logging are seen in the crystal ball for B.C.

DESIGN CHANGES

"New gas turbine power will change the design of helicopters sufficiently so that payloads in properly designed machines will be a reality.

"Savings in road building costs could be significant enough to make increased volumes of timber economically accessible," he said.

That was all Mr. Williston said in the house, but it was learned from a reliable source that one firm is prepared to risk $2,000,000 for three turbo jet helicopters.

It is understood negotiations for the aircraft are now in progress and that they will be specially designed for use in British Columbia's timber industry.

BOEING PROPERTY

It was announced last month that Vertol Aircraft Company of Pennslyvania and Arnprior (Canada) had been bought out by the Boeing Airplane Co., of Seattle.

News stories then disclosed that Vertol had contracts for three aircraft for the west, understood to be used for logging and other purposes in the west.

TWIN JET

Vertol already has a helicopter, the Vertol 107 twin jet, scheduled for production early in 1960, which will be able to carry a pay load of 9,000 pounds.

These would be capable of carrying 1,000 board feet of logs in a single haul and would be capable of flying in mechanical equipment, tractors, camp supplies and men.

ROADS OUT?

There would no longer be need for roads to logging operations.

An 8,000 to 9,000-pound lifting capacity is the minimum considered economical for logging operations.

SAVING SHOWN

In Pembroke, Ont., estimates on handling 14,000,000 board feet over a distance of seven miles to water by helicopter, showed an approximate saving of $13 per $1,000 board feet.

The Vertol Corporation already is working on a more powerful machine with a maximum lifting capacity of between 12,000 and 14,000 pounds and a drawbar pull equivalent to a 150 to 200-horsepower diesel tug towing at three miles an hour.

REVOLUTIONARY

A forest service official yesterday described the proposed plan as "revolutionary . . . a plan that can open up vast areas of timber that were believed inacessible."

In his speech in the legis-

Plebiscite For Germany?

LONDON (UPI) — The Western Powers intend to propose to Russia at the May summit meeting that the German people decide their own future in a plebiscite in both East and West Germany, it was reported yesterday.

Voting would be secret and supervised by the UN.

In Berlin, a city government spokesman said West Berlin would approve such a plebiscite plan without reservations.

Winter Boost For Tourism

Support of the legislature and the people of the province in bringing the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Garibaldi Park was urged last night by Don Robinson (SC, Lillooet).

"The department of recreation and conservation could take up no finer and more profitable task than fostering the Winter Olympics at Garibaldi Park," he said.

"It is the finest natural winter playground on the whole Pacific Coast and a natural site for the Winter Olympics," he said. "It would take money, but the returns would be tremendous. You have only to look at the benefits Vancouver received from staging the British Empire Games in 1954."

He said the move would be of immense benefit to the province's tourist trade, which at the moment is primarily a summer trade only, by bringing publicity to the facilities for winter enjoyment.

Tourist Body Backs Drive For Games

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Tourist Council said Wednesday it will offer full support to any efforts to bring the 1968 winter Olympic Games to Vancouver and Garibaldi Park.

Council president Jack K. Melville said:

"If we get the games, we can hope for full federal and provincial support in opening up Garibaldi Park, which would have tremendous benefits not only for ever-growing Vancouver but as a major B.C. tourist attraction in both summer and winter."

Allies Must Agree

Bonn Gives NATO Pledge on Spain

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) — Chancellor Adenauer's government pledged yesterday it will not negotiate with Spain for military supply bases unless NATO agrees to it.

A defence ministry spokesman made the pledge in the face of a growing storm in Western capitals over fears of a secret West German deal with Gen. Francisco Franco's regime

Adenauer is under fire for planning to move outside NATO commitments and negotiate with a nation excluded from the Atlantic alliance.

West German officials repeated their denials that any negotiations had started but reliable quarters said a West German general and two other defence ministry representatives already have made preliminary soundings in Madrid.

Reliable informants in Madrid said Franco discussed the question with his national defence council Tuesday night.

The Social Democartic party, Adenauer's chief political opposition, blasted the government Wedensday for "monstrous stupidity and tactlessness" in the matter.

A party statement said "the link between Adenauer and Franco brings back evil memories of another alliance to our Western allies.

The West German defence minister, Franz Josef Strauss, exchanged sharp words with the U.S. and British ambassadors Wednesday. (See also page 5.)

The ambassadors, told Strauss their governments are distressed over the timing of the German move.

Strauss said he was angry that reports of the plan were leaked to the press and was dismayed at press criticism that the move would revive memories of German-Spanish co-operation during Hitler's time.

In Madrid, the Spanish foreign ministry issued an official denial that West Germany has conducted negotiations with Spain for military or guided missile bases.

A West German spokesman said depots abroad were needed to store munitions, spare parts, fuel and hospital supplies.

Carnival Air Grips Brazil

★ ★ ★

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — President Eisenhower won the hearts of hundreds of thousands of "cariocas" yesterday with his famous grin and words of peace and friendship.

The president triumphed in this carnival-minded city of three million people in a day of public appearances and speech-making that set the tenor of his four-nation "good partner" tour of South America.

To the Brazilian Congress he pledged that the United States would devote "substantial portions" of any disarmament saving to economic development.

To the 11 justices of the supreme court in their ornate chamber he appeared as a visitor before the bar to plead that "the rule of law" must supersede "the rule of the sword" throughout the world.

At a state dinner tendered by host President Juscelino Kubitschek at the foreign ministry, he attested to "the high importance" the United States attaches to its good neighbors to the south.

To the hundreds of thousands who turned out in the streets to cheer, sing, shoot firecrackers and unleash a blizzard of confetti in his honor, he brought his personal prestige and the friendship of the United States.

His wild reception was virtually unprecedented in Brazilian history. A warm sun beamed on the gay city as he arrived and a rain last night did little to dampen the enthusiasm of the thousands of "cariocas," as Rio's citizens call themselves.

Eisenhower, who wound up the day's energetic activities looking slightly rumpled in the humid, summery heat, joined in the spirit and reached out to grab hands wherever he could.

It was the most hectic day of his 10-day tour to date, a forerunner of what he will find tomorrow in Sao Paulo, Brazil's booming "Chicago."

He was showered with rose petals by 200 schoolgirls on the steps of the Congress, where lawmakers applauded 22 times his appeal for world peace and economic co-operation. He received a standing ovation before and after his address.

The only scowling faces were on several dozen young men who hung out the windows of a building draped with a five-storey banner of Fidel Castro of Cuba. Almost everyone else shouted "vee leek Eek."

Shocked MLAs Throw Away Cigarets After Seeing Film of Cancer Horrors

Two MLAs brought up the subject of the cigaret habit in the legislature Wednesday and said the government should do something to educate the people about its dangers.

Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) said cigarets are a "billionaire industry" and a form of addiction.

He suggested that methods used in Sweden to break smokers of the habit should be studied and perhaps a "nicotine clinic" should be established in B.C. to help people quit smoking.

Mr. Dowding himself quit a year ago but admitted to the House that "it is tough."

"All you need is willpower," said 85-year-old Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie and a non-smoker.

Fred Sharp (SC, Vancouver East) said, after seeing a film shown MLAs Tuesday night pointing up the possibility of lung cancer from smoking, he was convinced "we're probably committing mass suicide."

It was tragic to think, he said, that 27,000 people would die in the U.S. this year from lung cancer, most of which, he said, could be traced to cigarets.

He suggested that perhaps the film could be obtained for showing in the high schools of the province to educate the young about the danger.

The Vancouver member disclosed that a number of members, after seeing the graphic film, "not only threw away their cigarets but their match boxes as well and I commend them."

He himself has never smoked "except for the odd cigar."

Canada Shuts Out Czechs, 4-0; Sweden Ties Russia in Upset

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP)—Canada moved into a first-place points tie with the United States by knocking off Czechoslovakia 4-0 Wednesday night in second round play of the Olympic hockey championship.

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Canada	2	0	0	16	0	4
U.S.	2	0	0	15	4	4
Russia	1	0	1	10	7	3
Sweden	0	1	1	5	8	1
Czechs	0	2	0	5	12	0
Germany	0	2	0	1	21	0

Goalie Don Head turned in a brilliant performance for his second straight shutout — Canada blanked Germany 12-0 in the first round—to give the Canadians a big edge in the goals average, which could be all-important if the tournament ends in a points-tie since the club with the best goals average would win the gold medal.

After two games Canada's goals record was 16-0 while the U.S. had 15-4. The Americans overwhelmed Germany 9-1 Wednesday after Monday's 6-3 win over Sweden.

The Swedes pulled the biggest upset of the tournament Wednesday night by holding Russia to a 2-2 tie.

Canada plays U.S. today at 4.30 p.m. PST.

The Canadians, who defeated Czechoslovakia 6-3 in the 1956 Olympics, jumped into a first-period 3-0 lead and added their final counter midway through the second period of a dull game.

Left wing Floyd (Butch) Martin led the Canadian scorers with two goals. Darryl Sly and George Samolenko each scored one.

Six penalties were called, four against the Canadians, who played sloppy hockey, particularly in the final 20 minutes when they were ahead 4-0.

Sly opened the scoring at 6.41 of the first period when he took a pass from Jim Connelly, circled the Czech net and put the puck in between Czech goalie Vladimir Nadrchal's skate and the goal post.

Ten minutes later, Martin got his first goal when he split the Czech defence, shot and followed the puck into the net.

Samolenko got his goal near the end of the period on passes from Fred Etcher and Moe Benoit.

Midway through the second period, Martin ended the Canadian scoring on a pass from Sly.

The Czechs who now have lost two straight, following their 8-5 loss to Russia Monday, clearly outplayed the Canadians in the final 20 minutes, but they couldn't penetrate Head, who joined the Canadian team a couple of days before the Winter Olympics began.

SHORTHANDED

The Canadians were shorthanded three times in the final period and the Czechs sent five men up but Head kicked out everything in sight. He had a total of 38 saves—16 in each of the last two periods. The Czech goalie made 36 saves.

Canada—Goal: Head; defence: Sinden, Sly, Douglas, Benoit; forwards: Attersley, Pennington, Forhan, Samolenko, Etcher, Martin, Rope, Connelly, Rousseau.

Czechoslovakia—Goal: Nadrchal; defence: Tikal, Kasper, Potch, Gut; forwards: Vlach, Starsi, Vanek, Pantucek, Bubnik, Volf, Cerny, Jirik, Colonka, Maslan.

Referees: Kurt Hauser, Switzerland, and Richard Wagner, Germany.

FIRST PERIOD

1. Canada, Sly (Connelly) 6.41.
2. Canada, Martin (Pennington, Sinden) 16.45.
3. Canada, Samolenko (Etcher, Benoit) 18.22.

Penalties: Sinden 6.55, Jirik 13.28.

SECOND PERIOD

4. Canada, Martin (Sly) 11.36.

Penalties: None.

THIRD PERIOD

No scoring.

Penalties: Benoit 4.28, 12.13, Vanek 9.33, Sly 18.38.

Canadian Skater Contender For Olympic Gold Medal

SQUAW VALLEY (CP) — Canada got back into contention at the eighth Winter Olympic Games Wednesday on the same figure-skating rink where Toronto's Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner won a gold medal on the 1960 Games' opening day.

Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., one of the world's best figure-skaters, was running fourth after the first three of five compulsory figures in the men's singles competition, but the 19-year-old Canadian and North American titleholder is usually rated below his best in these school performances.

He is expected to make his real bid Friday when the free skating in which he excels winds up the medal competition. The race then is expected to be between Jackson and David Jenkins of the United States.

After Wednesday's three opening figures Jenkins was running third behind the former European champion, Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia, and Alain Giletti of France.

Divin had 415.7 aggregate points at the end of the day. Giletti scored 403.0 to Jenkins' 400.2 and Jackson's 392.0. The other competing Canadian, Donald McPherson of Stratford, Ont., was 11th with 364.0 points.

The final two compulsory figures are scheduled for today.

The two medal events of the day were featured by a Russian tying his own world record in speed skating and Austria winning back its Alpine skiing prestige in the men's slalom.

Eugeni Grishin, world champion speed skater, equalled his own world mark of 40.2 seconds in the men's 500 metres. He beat the American bid for a gold medal by California's Bill Disney by 1-10th of a second, even though he stumbled in the home stretch.

Russia advanced its unofficial points leadership to 120 as another Soviet skater, Rafael Grach came third in 40.4.

Three Canadian skaters ended up well behind in the 500 metres, with Johnny Sands of Montreal placing 27th in 42.8, Ralph Olin of Edmonton 30th in 43.1 and Larry Mason of Calgary 41st in 44.7.

BEST OF FOUR

Verne Anderson of Rossland, B.C., was the best of the four Canadians in the men's slalom which saw several of the favored competitors take tumbles that knocked them out of competition. He was 24th with a total time of 2.29.3. Don Bruneski of Rossland was 28th in 2.32.9, Fred Tommy of Ottawa 34th in 2.43.9 and Jean-Guy Brunet of Ste Agathe, Que., 45th in 2.58.0. A field of 67 skiers started but 13, including Swiss star Roger Staub and Willy Bogner of Germany, who led after the first heat, didn't finish.

Japan beat the eager but inexperienced Australians 13-2 in an afternoon game in the consolation round for the teams who were knocked out of the medal tournament.

Iron Ball Ends Home Of Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP) — They threw out the first ball—iron—at Ebbets Field Tuesday and started to knock down the former home of the Dodgers.

A delegation of the Flatbush faithful, headed by former Dodger catcher Roy Campanella and several other ball players, attended a brief ceremony to mark the start of demolishing the park to make way for a $22,250,000 housing development.

A cast iron wrecking ball, painted to resemble a baseball, was the instrument of demolition.

Sale Swift

ROME (AP) — The Italian Olympic committee says that tickets worth $1,150,000 have already been sold abroad for the Olympic Games in Rome.

Most of the tickets were sold in West Germany, Britain, the United States, Australia and France.

Cougars Heading Home With .500 Road Record

CALGARY — Victoria Cougars came to life too late Wednesday night and as a result ended their final Prairie swing of the Western Hockey League season with a 5-3 loss to Calgary Stampeders.

Manager-coach Hal Laycoe's Cougars trailed 3-0 entering the final period last night.

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Vancouver	58	36	16	6	182	137	78
Edmonton	60	32	24	4	207	201	68
Seattle	59	32	24	3	224	180	67
VICTORIA	60	31	25	4	180	157	66
Calgary	59	25	33	1	197	197	51
Winnipeg	58	22	34	2	181	203	46
Spokane	59	18	39	2	172	264	38

Last night's scores: VICTORIA 3 at Calgary 5; Edmonton 5 at Winnipeg 2.
Next games, Friday: VICTORIA at Vancouver; Winnipeg at Edmonton.

Laycoe's charges scored all their goals in the last period but could not contain the revenge-seeking Stampeders.

Calgary had dropped a 2-1 overtime decision to Victoria last Saturday and, followed by an identical loss to Winnipeg Monday, were gunning for Cougars last night.

EARLY LEAD

A crowd of 2,439 watched Stampeders run up a 3-0 lead after the first period before insuring the win with two goals in the final period.

Veteran Lou Jankowski and Norm Johnson led Calgary with two goals each while rookie Terry Grey added a single.

Victoria goals came from Gordon Fashoway, his 29th, Arlo Goodwin and defenceman Ron Matthews.

ON DEFLECTION

Calgary went ahead 4-1 three minutes later with Jankowski getting his 31st goal of the season on a deflection.

Goodwin and Matthews completed Victoria's scoring with Gray's goal sandwiched between for Calgary.

RESPECTABLE

Despite the loss, Victoria ended the 10-day road trip with a respectable 3-3 record. Cougars played twice at Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg and gained a split in each city.

Cougars' loss dropped them to fourth place in league standings, one point behind Seattle Totems and two behind second-place Edmonton Flyers.

For Calgary, the win kept Stampeders' slim playoff hopes alive. Calgary is 15 points behind Victoria with only 12 games remaining, including a final coast swing.

Next game for Cougars is Friday night when Cougars play at Vancouver in the first game of a home-and-home series that concludes Saturday night at Victoria.

Victoria—Goal, Pelletier; defence, Wright, Blonda, Hay, Matthews; forwards, Blackburn, Ford, Haworth, Anderson, Goodwin, Fashoway, Macauley, Jones, Goyer, Prince.

Edmonton in Second; Warriors Beaten, 5-2

WINNIPEG — Edmonton Flyers climbed into second place in the Western Hockey League by scoring a bruising 5-2 win over Winnipeg Warriors last night before 2,000 fans.

Scoring all their goals in the first two periods, Flyers moved into second with 68 points, Seattle Totems, idle last night, fell to third spot with 67 points.

Feature of Wednesday's game was a brawling third period. Three fights took place during the period, two of them coming at the 11 minute mark when Ted Green and Bill Folk of Winnipeg tangled with Gordon Strate and Gene Achtymichuk of Edmonton.

Edmonton—Goal: Boisvert; defence: MacPherson, Coflin, Marcon, Strate; forwards: Dejordy, Holmes, Poile, Achtymichuk, Hynes, Diachuk, Labossiere, McNeill, Solinger.

9 p.m.—L. Welsh and H. Vidal vs. unknown.

Let's Fill The Arena

Victoria Cougars' Booster Club is hoping to receive support from local fans for a "Fill Memorial Arena Night" to be held Saturday with Vancouver Canucks visiting in a Western Hockey League game.

Booster Club officials ask that regular fans bring a friend to Saturday night's game to help in the project.

New Date for Amateur

The B.C. Golf Association has sanctioned a change of dates for the B.C. Amateur Championship to be played at Uplands this summer.

Scheduled originally for the week starting July 18 to July 23, it has been brought forward by one week to July 11-16.

The reason for the change is that it will bring the B.C. Amateur along immediately after the Pacific Northwest Association championship which is being held at Victoria Golf Club July 4-9.

It is hoped that some of the U.S. players taking part in the PNGA will take advantage of the change and stop over in Victoria to participate in the provincial competition.

The B.C. Junior Championship which was originally scheduled for Vancouver on July 11-12 has also been postponed one week to July 18-19 to avoid a clash with the B.C. Amateur's new date.

Five Cage Berths Available In Eight-Team Tournament

By LARRY ROSE

Second of three zone tournaments for Vancouver Island teams attempting to advance to next month's B.C. High School Basketball Tournament begins Friday at Victoria High with four games scheduled.

Eight schools will compete in the annual Upper-Lower Vancouver Island zone tournament. The tourney is a single-knockout event with the top five teams advancing to the Vancouver Island final, March 4-5 at Nanaimo.

Local teams competing in the tourney at Victoria High are the host Totems, Oak Bay, Belmont and Mount View.

Up-Island entries are Courtenay Towhees, Alberni District Chieftains, Tsolum and Campbell River.

Courtenay and Alberni are considered the strongest Up-Island schools while Victoria High and Oak Bay head the Lower-Island schools.

Totems and Towhees met in the B.C. final at Vancouver last year with Victoria High being the first Vancouver Island team ever to win the provincial tournament.

FIRST GAME

Playing in the first game Friday at 5 p.m. are Oak Bay and Tsolum. Mount View and Courtenay play in game two at 6.15.

Alberni and Belmont meet at 7.30 while Victoria High and Campbell River play in the feature Friday game at 8.45 p.m.

Play continues Saturday with consolation games at 10.30 a.m., 11.45 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2.15 p.m.

Semi-finals and finals will be held Saturday. Game times are 5.30 p.m., 6.45, 8 p.m. and 9.15 p.m.

Mount Douglas, Victoria High and Mount Newton will be local representatives at the Vancouver Island senior girls high school basketball tournament to be held Friday and Saturday at Ladysmith.

FAVORITES

Undefeated Mount Douglas is one of the favorites in the eight-team tournament.

B.C. tournament for senior girls will be held March 11 and 12 at Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

Victoria University Vikings open a two-game total-point Pacific Coast junior men's basketball series Friday night at Mount View against Vancouver YMCA.

Game time Friday is 9 p.m. Final game goes Saturday night, also at Mount View, at 9 o'clock.

★ ★ ★

Oak Bay all but clinched a berth in the final of the high school senior soccer competition for the Colonist Cup by edging Milnes Landing, 3-0, Wednesday afternoon at Carnarvon Park.

UNBEATEN

Unbeaten in five games, Oak Bay led 2-0 at the half. John Youson, John Rostron and Russ Selwood were Oak Bay scorers, while goalkeeper John Fraser posted his fourth shutout.

Other games saw Belmont down Esquimalt 4-0 at Esquimalt and Mount Douglas edge Victoria High 3-2.

Warren Chapman scored twice in Belmont's win, while Bill Spotswood and Pat Warrington added singles.

Jill Kinmont Watches from Wheelchair

Can't Keep Her Off the Mountain

By OSCAR FRALEY

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—The wind ruffled her brown hair and you could see her heart in her eyes, for she should have been racing down those snowy slopes herself.

There was a time when she did, and with the best of them. For she was an Olympic skiing hopeful five years ago at the tender age of 17.

Now all Jill Kinmont could do was sit and watch—chained by paralysis to a chromium wheelchair.

But they couldn't keep her away.

It is a thing, the grip this sport has for her, which is of the soul as well as of the body. The once-lithe form sits immobile now from a back broken in a skiing accident. The arms move weakly. The hands are twisted in the cursed position of the paraplegic.

Yet the head moves — and smiles.

And Monday as officials prepared to start the men's downhill run in the Winter Olympic Games the smile was big under the haunted eyes as Jill came back to the slopes once again.

They brought her up, tenderly, in a churning snowcat, an open carriage mounted on caterpillar treads. They put the wheelchair in a cleared spot beside the press box and lowered her gently into the rigid embrace of its metal arms.

She belonged at the press section because Jill, at 22, a junior at UCLA, is writing an analytical column on the Games for a Los Angeles newspaper.

Skiers swished past on all sides but Jill had eyes only for the dangerous, deadly pitch of the downhill course ending at the feet which no longer will wear skis. She knows them well and has ridden them more often in her memory than she ever did in the days when she dreamed of being in these very games.

"Too bad the girls didn't do any better," she said softly as they wrapped a blanket around her khaki packet, covering the twisted red-clover hands.

She was referring wistfully to the ladies' downhill, in which favored Penny Pitou finished second but the rest of the U.S. team, Betsy Snite, Joan Hannah and her own protege, Linda Meyers, finished out of the money.

"They were very blue about it," Jill explained. "They went all out. You do in something like this. It's do or die, no matter how it turns out."

She stopped as what she had said struck home.

It had been one of those do or die efforts which ended her career, and the memory of it momentarily wiped away the smile.

Jill had come roaring fearlessly down one of those steep, snow-polished slopes like the one in front of her. But she never reached the bottom. There came the crackup that the "schussboomers" — those who take the straightaway slopes at full speed—all fear far down underneath.

That was in January of 1955 at Alta, Utah. Jill has never walked since that day and probably never will again.

But they can't keep her off the mountain.

Nor can they wipe away that gallant smile.

Dougan Clan of Dougan's Lake

Family Cemetery Society Rules Over Cup of Tea

Woman's Shot Triggered Wilderness Burial Plot

(This is the fourth article in a series on the "vanishing pioneers" of the Cowichan Valley.)

By CHARLES THOMPSON

DOUGAN'S LAKE—There was nothing at Cobble Hill or Shawnigan Lake when James Dougan came here after following gold rushes on two continents.

The "free-thinking" Irishman settled and turned a chunk of forest into the only prosperous farm south of Duncan.

Before he died, he owned 1,000 acres of land, a kingdom that is now cut in two by the Trans-Canada highway and until recently nothing was named after him.

The area should be called Douganville. The family's historian, Nathan Paul Dougan, who was born in a log cabin within sight of where the Trans-Canada Highway is now, say the government changed the name of Rogers Lake to Dougan's Lake 10 years ago. He feels they shouldn't have because the Rogers' family were also early pioneers.

There are more than 100 Dougans living. It is the second largest family in Cowichan, and only beaten by the Evans family at Duncan.

ARRIVED IN '68

James Dougan arrived in 1868 and had 13 children which have divided into more branches than there are in the Cowichan River at Cowichan Bay flats. He died on New Year's Day, 1915.

He said some of the happiest times of his life were the hours he spent when he walked to Victoria. He left early in the morning, with a pitch torch for light.

LONG BACKWOODS

"The area was still comparatively backwoods until 1918, so my dad didn't see much of the mechanization era," says Nathan. "The big-wheeled bicycle and Marconi's radio were really thought to be something in those days."

The family was reared without following any orthodox religion. James adopted Saturday as the seventh day in the week, and the day for worship, although he never embraced the Seventh-Day Adventist beliefs.

NATHAN DOUGAN

'DROP DEAD'

"If the pioneers could come back to life, they'd drop dead at what's going on. It's awful," says Nathan. "They worked hard, but there was not the worry or the fretting there is today. Life was simpler and there wasn't the drive.

"The people who were born here, and lived here, tend to live longer, I feel, because life is plainer. Everything — even the air—is purer."

Strange memorial to the pioneers is the James Dougan Memorial Cemetery Society, built on the Old Victoria Road, and beside what is now the Old Island Highway. It overlooks the valley formerly owned by James.

James, his wife and children left their log cabin in 1873, after living in it for five years, when making a living proved to be too hazardous. They went to Fresno, Calif., for 18 months where one child died and another was born. They returned with James' brother, Joe.

SHOT BY WOMAN

On Aug. 3, 1890, Joe was shot and killed by a woman, and was buried on the property then owned by John Dougan. James bought it in 1903 and it became a cemetery when he buried a dead friend, John Kidder. The third grave was his own.

Each family belongs to the cemetery society, and pays $2 a year for its upkeep. They meet once a year at one of their homes and over tea elect officers.

"We think a lot of the cemetery, because it reflects on the pioneer settlers. We look on them as wonderful people, not just the Dougans, but the rest, too," says Nathan, the president of the cemetery society.

Nanaimo

Cadet Cuts Scored

NANAIMO — Manpower of RCSCC Ampion, Nanaimo's Sea Cadet unit, must be cut from 82 to 62, and Navy League officials don't like it.

The order is a general one, emanating from the federal government via naval authorities.

Every Sea Cadet corps in Canada will be affected.

Local Navy League president Eric Cox said that the cutbacks will cause some corps to fold. "You can't operate a corps of 35, for instance, with only one officer," he said.

He said the Navy League here would try not to release any of the boys currently in uniform, "even if we have to pay for their courses ourselves," said Mr. Cox.

One Held In Wake Of Thefts

DUNCAN — One man has been arrested and charged with theft of a car in the wake of a wave that saw three taken from Duncan in one day.

No plea was taken when Paul Stofi, no fixed address, was formally charged before Magistrate A. C. Sutton yesterday.

Stofi was remanded in custody. He is scheduled to come before the magistrate again tomorrow.

Police arrested Stofi in Duncan Tuesday night and he was charged with the theft of a car from outside the office of owner James E. Moore on Kenneth Street. It was found later on Canada Ave. several blocks away.

A car owned by Gordon Whan, Marchmont Street, was taken from its parking place on Jubilee Street, and abandoned 11 miles west of Duncan on Cowichan Lake Road. The third car, owned by Pierre Bion of Victoria, was taken from Government Street and left several blocks away on Canada Avenue.

Food Loot From Homes Unclaimed

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — A large quantity of tinned foods is being held here by police who are hoping it will be claimed.

The food is part of the loot from 11 homes broken into recently.

Police said yesterday at least seven charges are pending against two Victoria boys. Both were charged with one of the charges Monday in juvenile court at Victoria. They were remanded in custody until next Monday.

Most of the articles taken by the youths have been identified by the owners who are mainly Victoria residents.

Sweater For Guide

DUNCAN—The guide for B.C.'s curling team at Fort William will receive an Indian sweater for his trouble.

It is the policy of the Macdonald Brier to supply visiting teams with guides. A sweater will be taken along as a present for B.C.'s guide, said skip Glen Harper yesterday.

Truck and Driver Plunge into River

NANAIMO — Truck driver Maurice Pirart of Cedar plunged into Nanaimo River with his three-ton vehicle yesterday but was uninjured.

Pirart lost control of his truck on Cedar Road Hill when his brakes failed.

He headed for a ditch to avoid other traffic, overshot the bank and went into the icy water below the bridge. He escaped from the vehicle and swam ashore. The truck was completely submerged.

Alberni Aldermen Dig Up Debate

Postal Issue Lively Even After Burial

ALBERNI—A motion to reopen discussion on the post office issue was defeated by a 4-3 vote of council, but only after a session in which rights and privileges of mayor and aldermen were given an airing.

Laughter and applause from the audience punctuated the proceedings, which reached a climax when a motion was put to have Ald. C. M. Blair take over the reins of the meeting from Mayor Mabel Anderson. The mayor refused to vacate the chair.

A letter from Alberni Civic Non-Partisan Association touched off a dispute which ranged over the territory of mayoral authority, aldermanic conduct, citizens' rights and whether or not the post office should be sacrificed for mail delivery.

The association's letter, signed by R. G. Lyon, criticized last week's action of the council in authorizing a letter to the postmaster-general asking for enlargement and improvements to the post office building. Ottawa had previously indicated that enlargement of the building would preclude the inauguration for at least 15 years of postal delivery in the city.

Following reading of the letter, Ald. George Dunbar moved that the municipal affairs minister be asked for advice on the matter. Ald. Blair and Ald. Fred Bishop opposed the unseconded motion, and Mayor Anderson intervened with a quotation from the Municipal Act.

OUT OF ORDER

City Solicitor Bob Ohs' ruling that subject of the post office could not be introduced without a motion by the council to reopen the matter, Mayor Anderson's reasons for opposing a plebiscite on the issue, and Ald. Russell Foxcroft's opinion that the entire council and especially the mayor were out of order were all mixed up in the discussion which ensued.

City clerk Jim Sawyer finally was able to get across the fact that no discussion should take place until there was a motion passed to reopen the matter.

MOTION PROPOSED

Ald. Dunbar withdrew his motion on a letter to the municipal affairs minister, Ald. Barnett proposed a motion to bring the main issue back for discussion and Ald. Dunbar seconded it.

When Mayor Anderson declared them out of order, Ald. Barnett appealed against the ruling, and council supported his appeal.

Ald. Bishop declared, "in all my years on council, I've never been as confused as I am at this moment. Let's have the vote."

They Laughed at Century Sam

Furore 'Stupid,' Says Williston

People Like B.C. Flag—Only 'Artistic Set' Objects

The centennial flag, around which the proposed provincial flag has been designed, was widely accepted by the people of British Columbia, although it was opposed by the artistic set, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston told the legislature yesterday.

Mr. Williston said he was really the one who got the provincial flag question started.

"I said it would be a fine thing if B.C. had a flag of its own. The House voted for it and voted unanimously . . . and it was given a mock-up at the time," he said.

"Now we hear about fish rag . . . I just wonder how stupid we can get," Mr. Williston said. "We have done as this House wanted. If the House or the people of B.C. don't want it as a flag, okay. If you have any good ideas, let's have them."

Mr. Williston said when the centennial committee first came out with Century Sam there was terrible reaction . . . "and yet it became a symbol accepted everywhere."

He said the centennial committee had sent out numerods poster designs to advertise the centennial. "When applications came back to use the posters, the ones requested were the very ones thrown out by the artist fraternity. The one most used was the one with the dogwood symbol," he said.

He referred to the centennial sculpture contest. "In the end we paid them off not to make their designs," he said.

He said the centennial flag was designed by Cy Connorton of the Queen's Printer staff.

He said criticism came from artists, but "the people happened to like it and use it."

'Now If Province Made an Offer . . .'

Give Thetis to B.C. for Park? No Dice, Say Two Aldermen

Nature Body Requesting Donation

Two Victoria city councillors said last night they are opposed to making a gift of Thetis Lake Park to the B.C. government.

If their opposition is shared by a majority of council it could effectively kill a plan to turn the 1,200-acre watershed over to the recreation and conservation department of the B.C. government as a future provincial park.

'WORTH A LOT'

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said the property is "worth a lot of money."

"I am strongly opposed to the city giving away any of its assets," he said.

GIVING AWAY?

City parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney agreed, saying "I don't approve of giving anything away—this is an asset of the people of Victoria.

"As far as giving it away, I say no dice."

But he said it would be another matter if the province offered to "make a reasonable offer" for the area and "promised to retain it as a park."

REQUEST COMING

The statements came on the eve of a request by the Thetis Lake Nature Sanctuary Association that the city offer the area to the province.

Edmund H. Lohbrunner, association president, said it was his group's idea that the city would donate the land to the province in return for a commitment that it would be developed as a provincial park.

OFFER SPURNED

He said the city previously offered to give the area to the province at the same time Goldstream Park area was taken over from the Greater Victoria water district.

The province took Goldstream but declined Thetis Lake, he said.

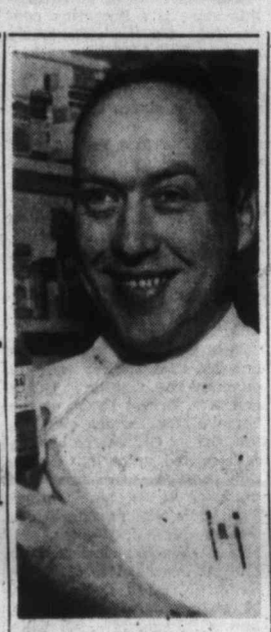

COUNTER

Meanwhile, if efforts to have the area taken over as a provincial park bog down, his association would probably revert to its earlier position that it would help raise some $5,200 for Thetis Lake park development.

The money would only be turned over to the city, he said, if the association received a commitment that council would reject a B.C. Electric application to pay a like sum for a powerline easement through the area and would pledge the 1,200 acres to perpetual park use.

Each Two-Cent Flip Burned $90 in Trees

Smokers who started forest fires in British Columbia last year caused an average of $90 damage from their two-cent cigarets. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston told the legislature yesterday that 211 forest fires last year were caused by careless smokers. He said these fires burned through 924 acres and cost the forest service $56,790 to put out.

Tax Fund Tapped For Bridge Aid?

ALBERNI—Plans are being considered to use money from the land sale trust fund for the major portion of the city's share of financing the new Kitsuksis Creek bridge, Alberni city clerk Jim Sawyer said this week.

Use of tax sale funds and interest in the account is permitted for capital expenditure on passage of a bylaw by a two-thirds majority of council, subject to approval of the municipal affairs minister.

The project, which is tied in with plans for flood control, involves an estimated expenditure of $55,000. The figures include $27,500 for the span, $37,500 for approaches and extension of Gertrude Street through to Compton Road. The city has used $9,000 from unexpended funds for 1959, earmarked for the project, to acquire properties for approaches, and street extension and for other preliminary work.

While the highways department is permitted to make a grant of 50 per cent of cost of the bridge, Mr. Sawyer said he does not know whether governmental grants can be made toward cost of approaches.

He said that tentative plans are to apply for permission to use $35,000 from the $40,000 land sale trust account.

The bridge on Gertrude Street, rather than renewal of the old span on Margaret Street, was recommended by consulting engineers following a study of a flood survey report made by the department of lands and forest for the city.

Dowding Charges:

Servant Board Just a Facade

'Nothing Changed'

The board of reference to decide civil service disputes has been made to appear as collective bargaining, whereas it is nothing of the sort, Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) charged last night.

Two out of the three board members are employees of the government and only certain decisions of the board will be made public and will be final and binding on the parties to the dispute, he said.

NOT BINDING

"Major decisions of the board on salary increases and working conditions will not be made public and will not be final and binding—they will merely be referred to the cabinet," he said.

"In short, this means that there is really no change from the present system whereby the Civil Service Commission refers its decisions on salaries to the cabinet.

POLICY GOES ON

"The cabinet can then continue its present policy of ignoring the recommendations passed to it and can continue its present policy of refusing to discuss or notify the employees' association of its decision," he said.

He said one of the worst features of the board is the attempt to give an air of authenticity by appointing Dr. Hugh Keenleyside as its chairman. Dr. Keenleyside is chairman of the B.C. Power Commission.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other board members will be a nominee of the Civil Service Commission and a nominee of either the employee with a grievance or the employees' association.

Mr. Dowding charged that the government is using the highly-respected name of Dr. Keenleyside as a "window dressing for its political gimmicks, such as this latest board of review, which will have no authority whatsoever to arbitrate on salaries and working conditions."

NAME USED

Mr. Dowding said Dr. Keenleyside can prove to be invaluable to B.C., but that it is completely unethical for the government to keep continuing to use his name as it has.

Dr. Keenleyside is also a member of the B.C. Energy Board, which Mr. Dowding described as "completely ineffective and its policy controlled by the government."

Jaycee Fair Expands Rides, Rhythm, Room

Exhibits Growing

* * *

Plan on spending more than one evening at the Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition. It will take you at least two nights to see it all.

That is the word from fair officials, who say the annual show, May 16 to 21, is going to be the biggest and best in the 14-year-old history of the event.

Everything about the show is going to be bigger — the stage show, the carnival and the exhibits.

Headlining the stage show will be the Kirby Stone Four, Columbia recording stars recently placed among the top six vocal quartets in North America in a national survey.

For those who enjoy carnival attractions, 10 new giant rides in addition to the usual array will be in action, and a 72-foot entrance gate, complete with loudspeakers, music and lighting is being assembled.

Major emphasis of this year's fair will be placed on the exhibits. One-third more floor space is being devoted to exhibits, with 2,400 square feet for one huge display, "Mediscope 1960."

"Mediscope 1960" will include displays of educational value on the subject of medicine, and demonstrations of "truth is stranger than fiction" stunts.

There will also be a 30 per cent increase in the agricultural show area. All 4-H clubs have been invited to participate, and prizes, too, will be larger than ever.

Navy Officer Commended For Rescue

Lieut. R. F. Dunston yesterday received a naval board commendation for his "presence of mind, prompt action, and disregard for personal danger" in the rescue of the wife of brother officer Lt.-Cmdr. M. M. Locke when Mrs. Locke accidentally drove a car off a jetty in Esquimalt. Both officers serve on HMCS Margaree.

Who Authorized Penny Drive? Asks Mooney

City parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney yesterday questioned the right of any organization to raise funds for a civic project without first having consulted city council.

Referring to a fund which raised some $60 in pennies toward $300 with which to pay Victoria sculptor Peggy Walton Packard for her bust of Queen Elizabeth, Ald. Mooney said, "I can't figure out who authorized them to raise the money.

"By what authority did they raise it?"

The fund was launched when Mrs. Packard failed to send the city a final bill for her work until some weeks after the bust had been delivered to the city. The city paid the bill a few days after receiving it.

When the city issued Mrs. Packard a cheque for $300, the terms of the fund also permitted the money to be donated to the city to help defray landscaping costs at the site where the bust is to be erected in Beacon Hill Park.

Asked yesterday if his committee would accept the money, Ald. Mooney said the problem would be placed in the council's lap.

"As far as I am concerned I think the city is quite capable to run its own business," he said.

He added that if the city needs public aid for a project, "it would ask for it."

HELICOPTER FLEET MAY LOG MOUNTAIN TOPS ON ISLAND

A Real Birthday at Last!

A real, honest-to-goodness birthday party will be celebrated at last on Monday by David Spittal, 579 Baker, and his pretty little neighbor, Sharon Lynn Ottenbreit, 575 Baxter, who were both born Feb. 29, 1956, the extra day that turns up only every four years. When it isn't leap year Sharon adopts Feb. 28 as her "birthday." David selects March 1. — (Colonist photo.)

Plebiscite For Germany?

LONDON (UPI) — The Western Powers intend to propose to Russia at the May summit meeting that the German people decide their own future in a plebiscite in both East and West Germany, it was reported yesterday.

Voting would be secret and supervised by the UN.

In Berlin, a city government spokesman said West Berlin would approve such a plebiscite plan without reservations.

Vertol 107 Helicopter
... to replace logging roads?

Start This Year?

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A fleet of giant helicopters may be in use before the end of this year to log the mountain-top forests of Vancouver Island.

The Daily Colonist has learned that a major company is actively planning to experiment with logging, by turboprop helicopter, hitherto inaccessible timber on B.C.'s mountainsides.

B.C. TO HELP

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said his department has agreed to take part in the experiments.

Some 100,000 feet of high elevation timber in scattered experimental patches in B.C. will probably be made available to the company at specially reduced stumpage rates.

PROBABLE SITE

One of the experimental areas is expected to be on the mountainsides near Alert Bay on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Williston gave a brief hint of the operation in the legislature yesterday when he said airlifts in logging are seen in the crystal ball for B.C.

DESIGN CHANGES

"New gas turbine power will change the design of helicopters sufficiently so that payloads in properly designed machines will be a reality.

"Savings in road building costs could be significant enough to make increased volumes of timber economically accessible," he said.

MAJOR RISK

That was all Mr. Williston said in the House, but it was learned from a reliable source that one firm is prepared to risk $2,000,000 for three turbo jet helicopters.

It is understood negotiations for the aircraft are now in progress and that they will be specially designed for use in British Columbia's timber industry.

BOEING PROPERTY

It was announced last month that Vertol Aircraft Company of Pennslyvania and Arnprior (Canada) had been bought out by the Boeing Airplane Co., of Seattle.

News stories then disclosed that Vertol had contracts for three aircraft for the west, understood to be used for logging and other purposes in the west.

TWIN JET

Vertol already has a helicopter, the Vertol 107 twin jet, scheduled for production early in 1960, which will be able to carry a pay load of 9,000 pounds.

These would be capable of carrying 1,000 board feet of logs in a single haul and would be capable of flying in mechanical equipment, tractors, camp supplies and men.

There would no longer be need for roads to logging operations.

An 8,000 to 9,000-pound lifting capacity is the minimum considered economical for logging operations.

SAVING SHOWN

In Pembroke, Ont., estimates on handling 14,000,000 board feet over a distance of seven miles to water by helicopter, showed an approximate saving of $13 per $1,000 board feet.

A forest service official yesterday described the proposed plan as "revolutionary . . . a plan that can open up vast areas of timber that were believed inaccessible."

Robinson Urges Legislature, B.C.:

Pull for Olympics!

Support of the legislature and the people of the province in bringing the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Garibaldi Park was urged last night by Don Robinson (SC, Lillooet).

"The department of recreation and conservation could take up no finer and more profitable task than fostering the Winter Olypmics at Garibaldi Park," he said.

"It is the finest natural winter playground on the whole Pacific Coast and a natural site for the Winter Olympics," he said. "It would take money, but the returns would be tremendous. You have only to look at the benefits Vancouver received from staging the Britisn Empire Games in 1954."

He said the move would be of immense benefit to the province's tourist trade, which at the moment is primarily a summer trade only, by bringing publicity to the facilities for winter enjoyment.

Bonn Gives NATO Pledge on Spain

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) — Chancellor Adenauer's government pledged yesterday it will not negotiate with Spain for military supply bases unless NATO agrees to it.

A defence ministry spokesman made the pledge in the face of a growing storm in Western capitals over fears of a secret West German deal with Gen. Francisco Franco's regime

Adenauer is under fire for planning to move outside NATO commitments and negotiate with a nation excluded from the Atlantic alliance.

West German officials repeated their denials that any negotiations had started but reliable quarters said a West German general and two other defence ministry representatives already have made preliminary soundings in Madrid.

Reliable informants in Madrid said Franco discussed the question with his national defence council Tuesday night.

The Social Democartic party, Adenauer's chief political opposition, blasted the government Wednesday for "monstrous stupidity and tactlessness" in the matter.

A party statement said "the link between Adenauer and Franco brings back evil memories of another alliance to our Western allies."

The West German defence minister, Franz Josef Strauss, exchanged sharp words with the U.S. and British ambassadors Wednesday. (See also Page 5.)

The ambassador told Strauss their governments are distressed over the timing of the German move.

Strauss said he was angry that reports of the plan were leaked to the press and was dismayed at press criticism that the move would revive memories of German-Spanish co-operation during Hitler's time.

In Madrid, the Spanish foreign ministry issued an official denial that West Germany has conducted negotiations with Spain for military or guided missile bases.

A West German spokesman said depots abroad were needed to store munitions, spare parts, fuel and hospital supplies.

Bodies Adrift Near Siberia

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) —The Alaskan air command said Wednesday it will launch an aerial search for the bodies of two polar bear hunters drifting on an ice floe off the coast of Alaska toward Siberia.

Ward Carroll, pilot and guide, and Stanley Gordon, his passenger, died Friday when their light airplane crashed on the floe.

Tourist Body Backs Drive

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Tourist Council said Wednesday it will offer full support to any efforts to bring the 1968 winter Olympic Games to Vancouver and Garibaldi Park.

Council president Jack K. Melville said:

"If we get the games, we can hope for full federal and provincial support in opening up Garibaldi Park, which would have tremendous benefits not only for ever-growing Vancouver but as a major B.C. tourist attraction in both summer and winter."

Ike Grins His Way Into 'Carioca' Hearts

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — President Eisenhower won the hearts of hundreds of thousands of "Cariocas" yesterday with his famous grin and words of peace and friendship.

(See also Page 2.)

Carnival Air Grips Brazil

To the Brazilian Congress he pledged that the United States would devote "substantial portions" of any disarmament saving to economic development.

To the 11 justices of the supreme court in their ornate chamber he appeared as a visitor before the bar to plead that "the rule of law" must supersede "the rule of the sword" throughout the world.

At a state dinner tendered by host President Juscelino Kubitschek at the foreign ministry, he attested to "the high importance" the United States attaches to its good neighbors to the south.

To the hundreds of thousands who turned out in the streets to cheer, sing, shoot firecrackers and unleash a blizzard of confetti in his honor, he brought his personal prestige and the friendship of the United States.

His wild reception was virtually unprecedented in Brazilian history. A warm sun beamed on the gay city as he arrived and a rain last night did little to dampen the enthusiasm of the thousands of "Cariocas," as Rio's citizens call themselves.

Eisenhower, who wound up the day's energetic activities looking slightly rumpled in the humid, summery heat, joined in the spirit and reached out to grab hands wherever he could.

It was the most hectic day of his 10-day tour to date, a forerunner of what he will find tomorrow in Sao Paulo, Brazil's booming "Chicago."

He was showered with rose petals by 200 schoolgirls on the steps of the Congress, where lawmakers applauded 22 times his appeal for world peace and economic co-operation. He received a standing ovation before and after his address.

The only scowling faces were on several dozen young men who hung out the windows of a building draped with a five-storey banner of Fidel Castro of Cuba. Almost everyone else shouted "vee leek Eek."

Carole Out To Save Own Neck?

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Carole Tregoff's attorneys opened a possible escape hatch for the red-haired former model yesterday by suggesting her lover might have murdered his wife. (See Page 32.)

In the first open split in the defence in the trial of Dr. Bernard Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, her attorneys indicated it was possible for a person to be at the scene of a crime yet innocent of any complicity.

Shocked MLAs Throw Away Cigarets After Seeing Film of Cancer Horrors

Two MLAs brought up the subject of the cigaret habit in the legislature Wednesday and said the government should do something to educate the people about its dangers.

Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) said cigarets are a "billionaire industry" and a form of addiction.

He suggested that methods used in Sweden to break smokers of the habit should be studied and perhaps a "nicotine clinic" should be established in B.C. to help people quit smoking.

Mr. Dowding himself quit a year ago but admitted to the House that "it is tough."

"All you need is willpower," said 85-year-old Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie and a non-smoker.

Fred Sharp (SC, Vancouver East) said, after seeing a film shown MLAs Tuesday night pointing up the possibility of lung cancer from smoking, he was convinced "we're probably committing mass suicide."

It was tragic to think, he said, that 27,000 people would die in the U.S. this year from lung cancer, most of which, he said, could be traced to cigarets.

He suggested that perhaps the film could be obtained for showing in the high schools of the province to educate the young about the danger.

The Vancouver member disclosed that a number of members, after seeing the graphic film, "not only threw away their cigarets but their match boxes as well and I commend them."

He himself has never smoked "except for the odd cigar."
